LOYALIST ARMIES CLAIM SUCCESSES OVIEDO HARD PRESSED

Relief Column Said To Have Been Broken

REBELS ALSO REPORTING SARAGOSSA VICTORIES

With Northern Rebel Army, Aug. 5.
Colonel Manuel Aranda, commanding the rebel forces at Oviedo, has sent a wireless appeal to General Mola and General Franco, northern and southern insurgent commanders, urging the immediate despatch of reinforcements.
He advised his superiors that he was unable to resist further without immediate assistance.
General Mola replied at once that the rebels were attacking en masse from the north with the purpose of relieving Oviedo.
General Franco has wirelessed that it is urgently necessary to hold Oviedo.
From fragmentary reports it is learned that the rebels' position in Oviedo is most serious and that food supplies are very low.—United Press.

REBEL REVERSES

Madrid, Aug. 5.
It is announced that loyalist artillery and aircraft have been bombarding Cordoba for hours and the fall of this city, held stubbornly by the insurgents, is expected at any moment.

It is now reported that loyalists have scattered the relief column which was marching to the assistance of the Oviedo rebels.

The Government claims the vanguard of a loyalist column, operating in Soria Province, has defeated the rebels and captured several towns, including Almazan, and is now preparing to march on Saragossa.

It is learned from Malaga that the military commandant there has been informed that power plant workers have severed electrical connection with Algeciras, Jativa, Cadiz and twenty other southern towns.

Encircling Granada

The loyalists are gradually encircling Granada, the last town in Soria Province, after an assault in which the militia participated.

Lieut.-Colonel Felipe Sandino, at Barcelona, has telegraphed that 2,000 rebels have joined the loyalists there, following the separation of a column by loyalist aviators. The column was marching as a vanguard of the force which is pushing into Saragossa.

The Catalonian Government has taken over the Ford and General Motors plants in Barcelona, and had already commandeered the majority of cars in the city for military purposes.—United Press.

Prisoners Taken

Barcelona, Aug. 5.
The Government forces, advancing on Saragossa claim to have surrounded an insurgent column near Saragossa, 45 miles from the city, taking 2,000 prisoners.—Reuter Special.

It is probable these are the same 2,000 men mentioned by the United Press despatch from Madrid as having gone over to the loyalists.—Ed.

Rebels Take Lorries

Lisbon, Aug. 5.
An insurgent wireless message from Burgos headquarters claims the capture of fifteen lorries loaded with men and munitions near Saragossa and the annihilation of a Government column consisting of 250 loyalist militia near Granada, with the capture of three field guns and machine-guns and several lorries and motor-cars.

It is also claimed that Royalists at Pamplona have organised a column

EUROPE ON PATH OF DANGER

BRITISH LEADERS REALISE RISKS BUT HALIFAX HOPEFUL

London, Aug. 5.
The delicacy of the international situation is emphasised to-day by the fact that Lord Halifax, who is acting for Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, while the latter is holidaying, interrupted his own vacation and returned to London to-day.

He spent the afternoon consulting officials over the Anglo-Egyptian negotiations and the Spanish situation. He expressed surprise at the developments in Greece.

With regard to the plan for a non-intervention pact, among interested powers, in Spain's civil war, he said things seemed to be developing well and quickly.

Authoritative quarters do not anticipate much difficulty with regard to Russia and Portugal, who will probably be ready to sign the non-intervention pact, but the reply of Italy to the French note suggesting this agreement is awaited with the utmost anxiety. With the goodwill of all sides, it is hoped an agreement will be reached very shortly.—Reuter.

DANGERS RECOGNISED

London, Aug. 5.
Well informed quarters here regard the British acceptance in principle of the French neutrality proposal as equivalent to an admission of British recognition of the dangers of the international situation and the complications hanging on the Spanish crisis.

It is believed that Signor Benito Mussolini will at least be willing to attend a conference on the subject of neutrality.—United Press.

RUSSIA AGREES

Moscow, Aug. 5.
Russia has informed the French Charge d'Affaires here that she agrees in principle to non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.—Reuter.

Moscow has now informed the French Charge d'Affaires that Russia desires that Portugal should join in the neutrality agreement and that the assistance rendered by certain states to the rebels should be immediately discontinued.—Reuter.

BRITISH ATHLETES IMPROVE

WHITLOCK WINS 50 KILOMETRE WALK

CHALLENGE IN HURDLES

British competitors did a little better yesterday in the World Olympic Games at Berlin.

The 50 kilometre walk in record time, Donald Finlay, champion Englishman finished first in his 110 metres hurdles heat, while S. L. Thornton, another Englishman qualified. Jack Corner, the English mile runner, finished second in his 1,500 metres heat, while Jack Lovelock of New Zealand came third. Both qualified. Jesse Owens continued to amaze, setting up a new record for the 200 metres which he covered in 20.7 seconds. He has now secured the triple, last accomplished by Nurmi in 1924.

Latest results and special descriptions will be found on the sports pages.

NEW EMPIRE FLYING BOAT ALOFT

One hundred years ago Mr. Pickwick entered Rochester by stage coach. Last month the first of the Imperial Airways' new 27-ton flying boats went through its trials for the Empire service over the historic city. The boat, which is the first of 23 similar machines built for the Empire route, will probably fly to Hongkong before the end of this year. In the background of the photograph above are indicated the Castle, the Cathedral and the Bull Hotel, where Mr. Pickwick stayed.

SHELL FALLS ON GIBRALTAR

Near Encampment Of British Refugees

PLANES DRIVE SPANISH WARSHIP TO SHELTER

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

Gibraltar, Aug. 5.

During an air and naval battle in the Straits of Gibraltar to-day a large shell from a Spanish Government destroyer fell on the Gibraltar race course, exploding only 200 yards from the refugee camp in which 800 British subjects are sheltered.

None of the refugees was injured.

The destroyer had rushed from Malaga to attack two steamers ferrying 2,000 insurgent troops from Morocco to Spain, but rebel planes, conveying the steamers, bombed the destroyer so severely that it was compelled to return at full speed to Estepona.

The insurgent troops were landed at Algeciras.—Reuter Special.

Driven To Shelter

Gibraltar, Aug. 5.
A trio of rebel aeroplanes pursued and bombed the loyalist destroyer, Lepanto, killing one and wounding seven, and drove the warship to take refuge in Gibraltar harbour.

One of the wounded men was brought to hospital here and the others will be landed at Malaga when the Lepanto arrives there.
Meanwhile, it is learned, the loyalist warships Jaime I, Libertad and Churruarri repelled with anti-aircraft guns when five rebel planes attacked them in the night in an attempt to stop the bombardment of Ceuta.—United Press.

Gun Disabled

Gibraltar, Aug. 6.
The Spanish Government destroyer Lepanto, with one of her crew dead and several wounded, and her anti-aircraft gun disabled, took refuge here from rebel aircraft, and her wounded master gunner was landed for treatment.
Later, the Lepanto sailed for Malaga.—Reuter.

Deliberately Shelled

Tangier, Aug. 5.
It is understood that the German battleship Deutschland has sent a radio report to Berlin officially reporting that the Spanish destroyer, Almirante Valdes, deliberately fired on the German freighter Sevilla while she was unloading cargo in the rebel port of Larache, Morocco.—Reuter.

NEW LINER

London, Aug. 5.
The new 11,000-ton liner, Clyde Benares, was launched on the Clyde to-day for Ellerman Lines from the yard of Barclay, Curle and Company at Whiteinch.—British Wireless.

$5,000 CASH IN LOOT

Shanghai, August 6.

Two officers and three passengers of the coastal steamer Hseng Hsin have been kidnapped by pirates which boarded the vessel near Amoy.

The pirates also took $5,000 in cash.—United Press.

No news of the piracy has been reported to the naval authorities in Hongkong.

The Hseng Hsin is not known here and it is possible that she is owned by a North China company. It is unlikely that the officers are British but are more probably Russian or Chinese.

SPLIT IN AMERICA LABOUR

SUSPENDED

MILITANT ELEMENT

Washington, Aug. 6.
A serious trade union split has occurred in the midst of the national election campaign.

The Executive Council of the Federation of Labour has voted for the suspension of ten unions, aggregating a million members, affiliated with Mr. John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organisation, unless they withdraw from the Committee within a month.

This action follows the failure of the miners' leader, Mr. Lewis, and eleven members of his committee to appear at the opening in Washington of their "trial" for insurrection and rebellion against the American trade union movement.
They are charged with seeking to organise American labour in more militant fashion than that favoured by the majority of members of the Federation of Labour.—Reuter.

Dismissed Secretary's Case Probed

HIGH AIR MINISTRY OFFICER AT FAULT BUT CORRUPTION NOT SUGGESTED

London, Aug. 5.

The report of the Board of Inquiry into alleged discussions between Sir Christopher Bullock, former Permanent Secretary to the Air Ministry, and Sir Eric Geddes, Chairman of Imperial Airways, with regard to Sir Christopher's possible future association with Imperial Airways Board, was made public to-day.

It was in consequence of the reported conversations between Sir Christopher and Sir Eric that the Secretary of the Air Ministry was dismissed from the service.

The report of the Inquiry Board emphasises that there was no question of corruption in the case.

The report states that it is the opinion of the investigators that it was improper for Sir Christopher to initiate conversations in furtherance of his desire to link his future with that of Imperial Airways and declares that this man's conduct has been completely at variance with the tenor and spirit of the Civil Service Code.

The report holds that Sir Christopher never appreciated the gravity or fully realised the true nature or possible consequences of what he was doing.

HAD NO EFFECT

The discussions between Sir Christopher and Sir Eric did not influence in any way the negotiations for the projected contract between departments of the State and Imperial Airways, or the general relations between those departments and the company.

There had been no attempt to barter honours in return for personal advancement, nor was there any desire or suggestion that such a barter was conceived by anyone concerned in the transactions.

WELCOME HONOUR

The report deals with the interview of Sir Christopher and Sir Eric on May 14, 1934, at which Sir Eric indicated that a certain honour suggested in the course of discussion would be welcome to him if it were in recognition of his services in linking up the Empire by air.

Sir Christopher had said he would like to succeed Sir Eric as chairman of Imperial Airways, but Sir Eric had replied that he had no idea of resigning.

Sir Christopher then suggested that he might be able to get himself nominated as Government Director of Imperial Airways, and said he supposed the Board would not object. The Secretary of the Air Ministry neither asked for nor received any promise of Sir Eric's support, and Sir Christopher's resignation.—

Radio Ideas Wanted

FINE OPPORTUNITY FOR LISTENERS

Entries are coming in every day for the competition, sponsored by the Telegraph, in which a handsome Philips Console radio receiving set is offered as a prize for the purpose of securing the ideas of listeners on the ideal radio programme.

Entries will definitely close on Tuesday, August 11, and an appeal is made to all regular listeners to submit their preferences and also to accompany them with suggestions for improvement of ZBW programmes. All such suggestions will receive official cognisance.

The primary aim of the Competition is to secure data on what the public really wants, and particular stress is laid on value of constructive suggestions. The contest provides a unique opportunity for the public to indicate its wishes and to put forward proposals likely to be of value to ZBW.

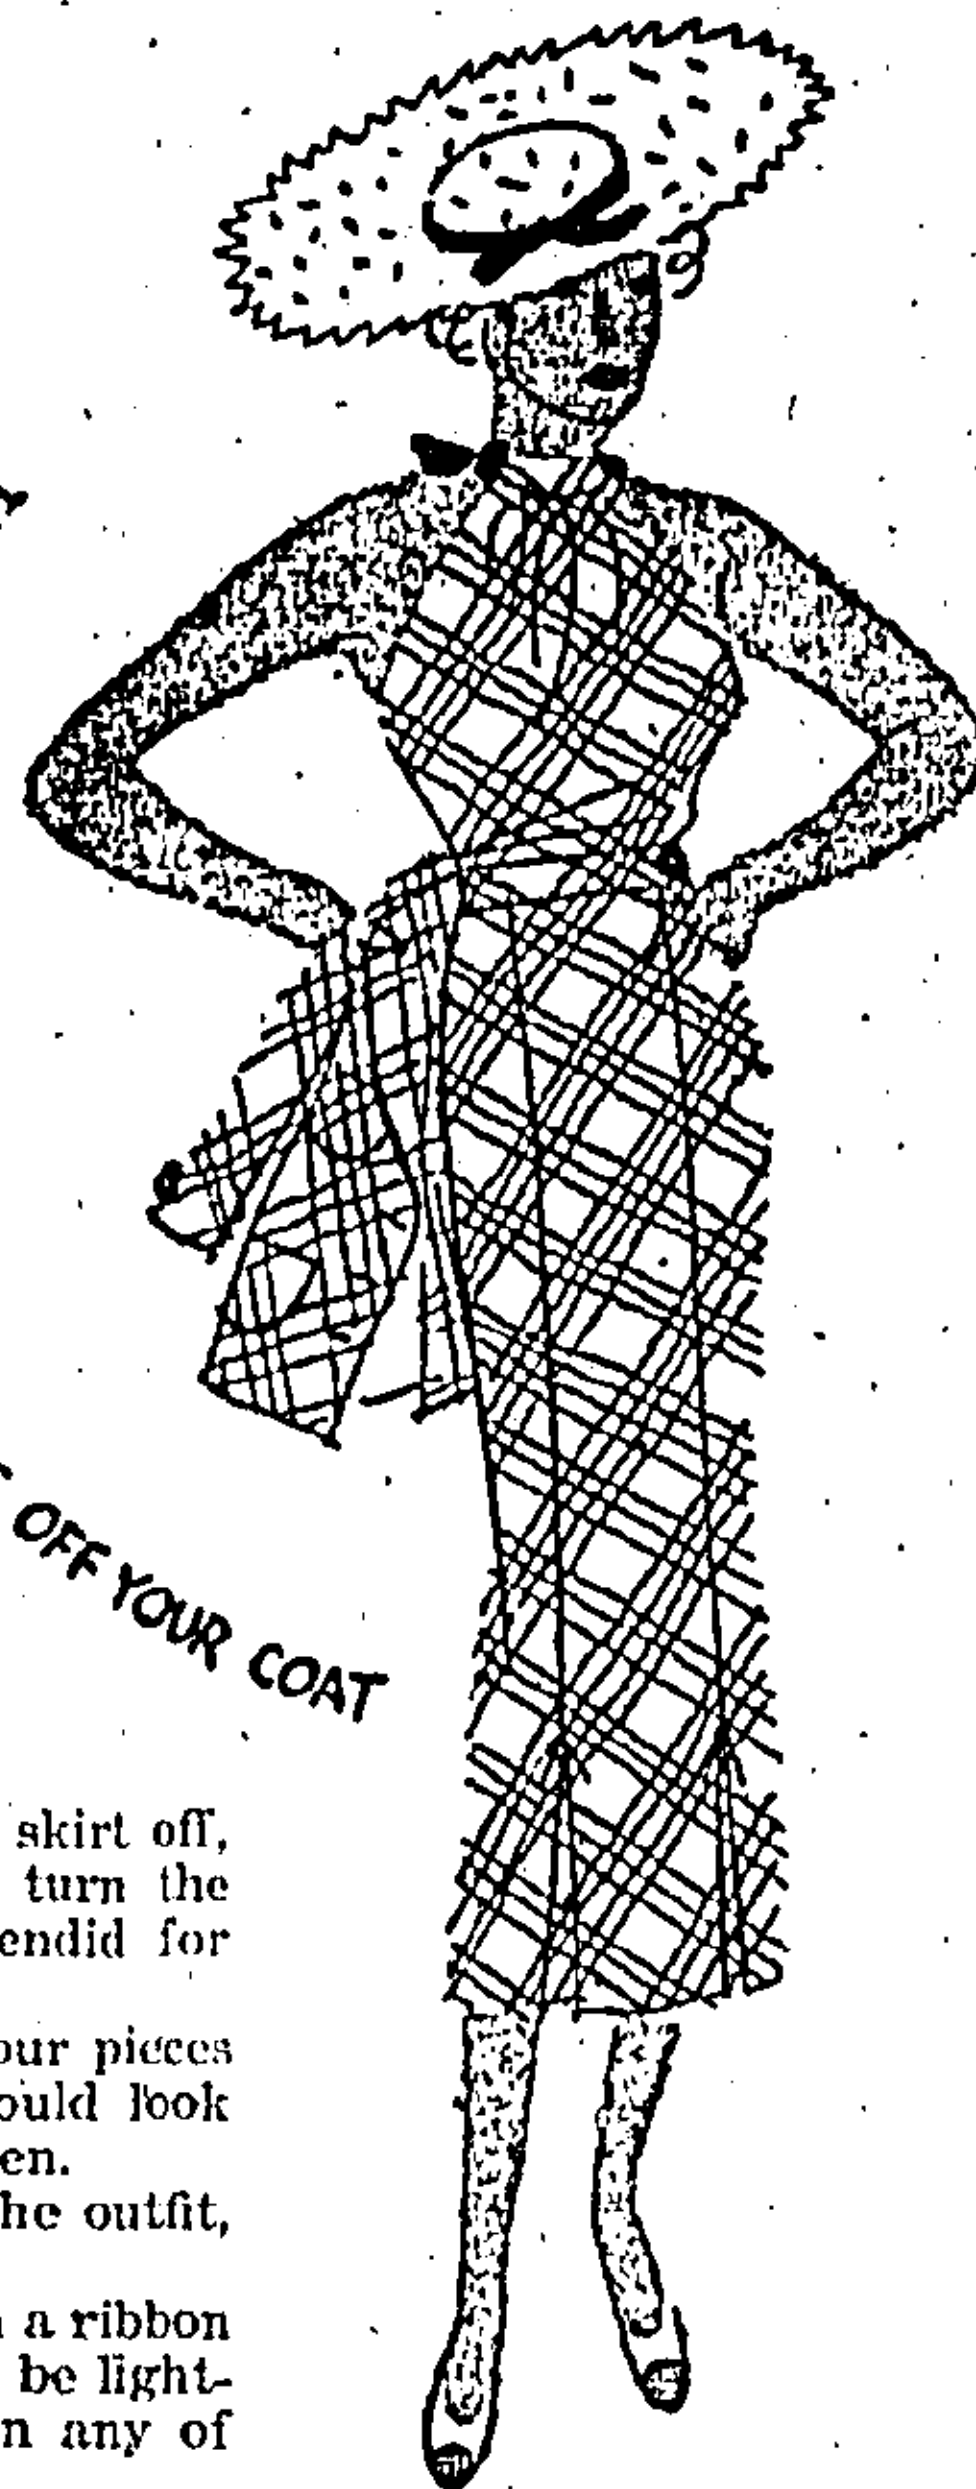

Merely to grouse, and to refrain from making concrete proposals for the improvement of local broadcasting, through analogy or other enigmatisms, gets nowhere. We therefore appeal for a really representative response to the opportunity now presented. The competition coupon will be found elsewhere in this issue. There is no entrance fee.

DEARER BREAD LIKELY

London, Aug. 5.
The price of flour is now the highest for several years and an advance in the price of bread is under consideration by the London Bakers Association. The price of flour has risen ten times in the last two months, the aggregate increase being 7s. 6d. for 280 pounds.—British Wireless.

On her head is a large, wide-brimmed hat with a dark band. She holds a dark, rectangular clutch bag in front of her waist. She is also wearing high-heeled shoes. The text 'GOING TO FOUR? Hauptmann Leaves All to Wife

New York, July 28.
Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who was electrocuted on April 4 for murdering the Lindbergh baby, has left all his property and belongings to his "beloved wife, Anna."
The will, which has just been filed, was made on January 13, 1933—20 months before Hauptmann's arrest for the Lindbergh crime.

MAN IS GRILLED, JUST SMILES

New York, July 25.
Edward Freed, restaurateur turned by "Scarface" Al Capone into a night-club manager during Prohibition, to-day surrendered to the Chicago police for questioning in connection with the "jealousy murder" of blonde Audrey Vallette.

Audrey, convent girl turned by Prohibition into a gold-digger, butterfly, and drunkard, was found shot last Thursday.
Immediately after the shooting a brunette fled from Audrey's apartment and has since been identified as Carmelia Freed, wife of Edward Freed.
"Police believe that Freed is 'Eddie' referred to in affectionate drinking left by the murdered girl.
Freed was asked by detectives: "Where have you been?"
"With relatives," he replied.
"Did you know Audrey Vallette well enough to cause your wife to become jealous?"
Freed smiled, placed a fatherly hand on his questioner's shoulder, said: "When I know more about this matter I'll talk."

SOME DIETS CAN BE DANGEROUS

Kansas City, Mo., July 20.
To add to the accusations against the drug Dinitrophenol when used to aid in reducing weight, Dr. Warren D. Horner of San Francisco has reported on case histories of 50 women who suffered unsuspected troubles.
The fifty young and middle-aged developed cataracts of the eyes.
The cataracts developed exactly as do those of elderly people, Horner revealed. Within a few weeks, the victims reached a point at which they could see only the movements of their hands.
Extraction of the cataracts yields results comparable to extraction in other diseases, but no treatment has been found that will retard their growth.—United Press.

DRAMA BEHIND ROYAL DIVORCE SUIT

A DRAMATIC STORY LIES BEHIND THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT COUNTSSE CAVADONGA HAS APPLIED TO THE CUBAN COURTS AND THE PAPAL ROTA TO SECURE THE ANNULMENT OF HER MARRIAGE TO THE FORMER PRINCE OF THE ASTURIAS, ELDEST SON OF EX-KING ALFONSO OF SPAIN.

It is now revealed that the countess, anticipated only by a few hours the moves of her husband with the same end in view.
The countess and the prince were married on June 21, 1933, after the prince had failed to obtain the consent of his parents to the union with a commoner, Sonorita Edelmira San Pedro Oreo, as the bride, the daughter of a wealthy Cuban planter, was named.
It was understood at the time that the prince had agreed to renounce his rights to the throne in favour of a younger brother, and it was only on that understanding, or the withdrawal of the family opposition, that the family of the bride consented to the marriage.
It was also understood that the

CORONATION TRADE DUMPING FOREIGN SOUVENIRS AT CUT-THROAT PRICES

Birmingham, July 28.
Foreign manufacturers are dumping in this country Coronation souvenirs intended to be sold at prices less than what British manufacturers have to pay for the raw material.

Birmingham let alone Britain, has facilities for manufacturing all the souvenirs and mementoes that will be needed for next year's Coronation, yet Japan and Czechoslovakia are sending over shiploads of them to be sold at cut-throat prices.
These souvenirs, which bear the Royal coat of arms and patriotic inscriptions, are classed as imitation jewellery on which a reduction of duty is given.

MEDALS FROM JAPAN
Some of the Japanese medals for children are being sold wholesale at under a penny each—less than the actual cost of raw materials to the home producer—and can be retailed at half the price of a reasonably good quality British-made medal.
This is the situation revealed to The People by Major Gilbert Denison, the representative of the Birmingham Jewellery Trade on the Federation of British Industries, who declared: "We desire a complete prohibition of the importation of Coronation souvenirs and we think it is a fair and reasonable demand."
The F.B.I. is asking for a revision of British tariff policy, for the imposition of quotas to overcome dangers arising from the economic policy of foreign countries which cannot be met by our tariff machinery for protection against the importation of Empire-manufactured goods, and for the withdrawal of "most-favoured-nation" treatment from countries which continue to give unfavourable treatment to British goods.

JUDGE ON LOVE AT 40 Churchwarden Cited As Co-Respondent

TO PAY £500 DAMAGES TO ORGANIST

A CHURCH organist was awarded £500 damages against a churchwarden whom he cited as co-respondent in the London Divorce Court recently.

Before Mr. Justice Langton and a common jury, Mr. Bertram Ivor Helliwell, a chartered secretary, of Imperial Drive, North Harrow, Middlesex, was granted a decree nisi for divorce from Mrs. Dorothy Ethel Helliwell, and £500 damages against Mr. Wilfred Reginald Hurst.

Mr. Hurst, who is a registrar of births, marriages and deaths, lives in the same road.

Mr. Helliwell charged his wife, whom he married in April, 1927, with adultery with Mr. Hurst in his motor-car in a lane at Pinner, one night last November.
Mrs. Helliwell and co-respondent denied the adultery and defended the suit.

HOLIDAYS TOGETHER
Mr. Helliwell's case was that he and Mr. Hurst were neighbours, foundation members of the same Masonic Lodge, and honorary organist and churchwarden, respectively of the same church.
They and their wives went for holidays together, and he had occasion to protest about Mrs. Helliwell's association with Mr. Hurst.

Summing-up, Mr. Justice Langton said they had, in this case, the history of a respondent wife and a married co-respondent both over 40 years of age, who had admitted they were in love.

"NOT CHILDREN"
They were not children, and the jury would ask themselves why people of mature age should go together after dark in a motor-car to a lane which was practically a cul-de-sac and a comparatively sheltered place?
They had sworn that nothing happened there.

"There is a sentimental age, which we may all have passed through," remarked the judge. "We have, perhaps laughingly, observed young people holding hands on the top of an omnibus. It is for you to consider whether, in your experience, that stage lasts very long."

The jury found the allegation of adultery proved.

Mollisons Aim For World Hop

London, Aug. 1.
Although they want to start on a flight around the world together by the end of August, Jim and Amy Mollison are still hunting for a suitable plane.

Amy said in an interview that if they could not get a big machine in time, they might make the attempt in two small planes and keep together. Mrs. Mollison went on to explain that they would first fly from England to Australia, and then across the Pacific, stopping at Fiji and Honolulu. From San Francisco they would fly across the American continent and then make an Atlantic flight back to England, covering 27,000 miles in all.

"I just cannot help doing long-distance flights," she added, looking back over her amazing career. "I put a few years since she made her solo flight to Australia."

"The flight around the world which Jim and I have planned is not easy, because one of the three long hops will be 3,100 miles across the Pacific. Then we must carry sufficient petrol for 4,000 miles, and that is equivalent to the weight of 20 men, yet it must be carried in a plane built for two."

Becoming more confidential, Amy went on:

"I have been asked whether Jim and I quarrel when we are in the air. We do, quite often. Even in the best of regulated households that happens."

"Husband and wife cannot both be right, and as Jim has much greater flying experience than I have I bow to his experience, although I often shout, 'You are wrong and I am right.' But there are ways of making it up, and it is rather fun afterwards for both husband and wife to acknowledge they were in the wrong."

Last Of The Czars Holds Court

EXILES PAY HOMAGE TO GRAND DUKE

Paris, July 28.

Once or twice a year there is held in Republican Paris a royal Court reflecting some of the vanished glory of the pre-war Czarist regime.
Its "sovereign" is the Grand Duke Cyril, head of the exiled house of Romanoff and first cousin of the last Czar.

He has just bestowed the highest Russian title of Princess of the Don on Lady Deterding, former wife of Sir Robert Deterding.

The grand duke lives the private life of a country gentleman in the little French fishing village of St. Brice, in Brittany.
But in the minds and hearts of the White Russians, who fled abroad in the Bolshevik revolution, he is their emperor.

So, when this tall, bronzed, distinguished-looking man comes to Paris, news of his arrival is flashed round the Russian colony.

He travels from taxicab drivers to restaurant kitchens, from manacled dressing-rooms to fashionable houses: "His Majesty will receive his subjects to-morrow night."

RECEPTION

They crowd into the rooms where the reception is taking place. The young women, beautifully dressed, work as maids, their menfolk as waiters, porters, and taxicab drivers.

They stand in a semi-circle waiting for their emperor. A new light comes into their eyes as slowly he goes round, speaking a few words to each, recognising in old friends here, shaking hands with one of his former aides-de-camp there.

The men click their heels and bow, women curtsy low as he passes.

Then, as the emperor retires, waiters bring in vodka, champagne, and caviare, and for a few hours more they live their lives over again.

Then back they go to their homes and their drab, everyday existence, while the emperor returns to his little fishing village in Brittany.

Wife Hated Roosevelt: Ex-Senator Seeks Divorce

JUST because his wife made caustic remarks about President Roosevelt, former United States Senator C. C. Dill sought a divorce at Spokane, Washington, to-day.

Said Mr. Dill: "I thought my wife was a supporter of the President."

"She seemed to think he was all right, too, until she invited him to make a speech at a Peace League meeting which she arranged."

"He declined on some polite excuse, and after that my wife had no use for him."

"BURIED DOGS IN YARD"
While he was in Washington he was continually asked, "What's the matter with your wife. She's making unnecessary remarks about the President."

Under cross-examination Dill told of his wife's presentation at Buckingham Palace in 1923.

"I told her I'd take advantage of the trip to study radio conditions in Europe."

"While she was being presented I just walked around the streets and maybe went to a show."

"I guess I had other complaints about my Roosevelt-hating wife. She was a bad housekeeper and embarrassed me by her dress habits."

"She buried dogs in the backyard and publicly asserted that I drank like a baby."

"But," added Dill graciously, "she is a charming and beautiful woman."

PACIFIC OIL Three Nations Seek Supremacy

San Francisco, July 31.
A triangular fight for the discovery and development of new oil fields in the Pacific area is now under way by three of the major powers bordering thereon.

The competitors are the United States, Japan and Australia.

While the California oil fields are being constantly increased and developed to an extent to insure for many years to come more than enough oil for the commercial and defensive needs of the Pacific coast, Japan and Australia have now entered the field in an effort to develop self-sufficient supplies of their own.

JAPAN'S PROGRESS

Of the two latter countries, Japan has already made the most progress in the discovery, development and financial organization of new fields, but now Australia has also taken the first steps to insure her own supply.

Advices just received from Canberra announce that the Commonwealth government has not only decided on a brisk forward policy for the production of oil for Australia, but has made available the sum of $1,250,000 to be used as loans on a dollar for dollar basis in aiding companies drilling in localities adjudged most favourable to the existence of well oil.

Protection from outside competition is also to be given to the extent of present customs, namely 14 cents per gallon, and excise duties of 11 cents per gallon on all gasoline derived from shale up to 10,000,000 gallons annually for the period of twenty years.

Information in the possession of the Australian government, the advices assert, points favourably to well oil in Australia and New Guinea. The money now made available is to be devoted not to geological surveys, which have already been made over considerable areas—but to definitely ascertaining if supplies actually exist in commercial quantities in chosen places.

DEFENSIVE NEEDS

The assistance being given by the government for shale oil production is conceded to have been determined on the ground of defensive needs rather than purely economic grounds. Offers are to be invited from companies prepared to operate on the shale seams on Newnes in New South Wales especially.

The government has also undertaken the investigation of low temperature carbonization processes, but it will be another year before it is known whether these hydrogenation processes now in operation at the Imperial Chemical Industries' English plant will justify the creation of a similar plant in Australia.

Pending the development of its own oil fields and supplies, the Australian defence department has undertaken the construction of the two largest storage tanks in Australia. These will be situated on Chandler Bay, Sydney Harbour, and will have a capacity of 12,000 tons of oil each for defensive purposes. Three other 8,000 tons tanks have already been completed at Darwin, one of the strategic points of Australia.
In the meantime, Japan has already progressed much further in her efforts to develop oil fields of her own sufficient to meet both her defensive and commercial needs.

JAPANESE IN JAVA

For the time being her efforts are being centred in Java, Sumatra and Borneo.

The discovery of fields there together with possibilities of oil which the Australian government have found in New Guinea lead some oil experts to think that an oil field in the southern Pacific may exist similar to that along the California coast.

In Borneo two companies have been operating with a total production of 13,640 barrels daily during the past year.

The present effort of Japan to extend these fields to an extent where it will have a nearby source of oil is sponsored jointly by the Japanese ministers of the Army, Navy, Foreign Affairs and the Colonies.

Already a combine has been effected by the Mitsui, Mitsubishi and Sumitomo interests to operate under the new fuel policy of the Japanese government. It is capitalized at 50,000,000 yen, or approximately $15,000,000. Preliminary expenditures of 1,000,000 yen have already been authorized.

The first concrete step in the Japanese control of the crude oil sources already discovered and in operation calls for the consolidation of the Mitsui Trading Company and the Borneo Oil Co., which would thus become Japanese controlled.—United Press.

CINEMA NOTES

Just a good little girl who's always in bad! That's the type of role that mischievous Jane Withers has in her new heart-warming Fox hit, "Little Miss Nobody," showing to day at the King's Theatre. Jane is one of the children in the Sunshine Orphanage presided over by two kindly matrons, and her pranks continually get her into hot water. When Jane steals a complete dinner from the back of a grocery wagon so that the children will not go hungry on Thanksgiving Day, she is arrested and brought before the juvenile court. The judge, however, decides that Jane's act was unselfish rather than malicious and parades her in the matrons' custody. She goes on her good behaviour for a while, but when she tries to do her bosom pal, Betty Jean Hainey, a good turn, she is discovered and the matrons, misinterpreting her act, reprimand her. Jane finally proves her own identity and wins a home for herself and happiness for those who aided her make this her finest and most entertaining film to date. Included in the cast of this Sol M. Wartel production are Jane Darwell, Ralph Morgan, Sara Haden and Harry Carey.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate"

Writing a novel in twenty-four hours seems an impossible task, although the late Edgar Wallace, British thriller-author, is said to have done it on more than one occasion. In the new RKO-Radio feature, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday, Gene Raymond makes a bet that he can accomplish the feat, and goes to a deserted mountain resort in the dead of winter to write. But the arrival, one after another, of a diversified group of characters interested in the recovery of valuable jewels interrupts his programme and furnishes the plot of an unusually thrilling and hilarious screen offering. Margaret Callahan has the feminine lead with the blond Raymond, and Erin O'Brien-Moore, Eric Blare, Moroni Olsen, Grant Mitchell, and Ray Meyer and other noted players are in the cast.

Six cases of Typhoid (two imported), one case of Measles with one death, one death from Meningitis, and 45 deaths from Tuberculosis, were reported to the local Health authorities last week on Tuesday, one case each of Measles and Meningitis were also reported.

Mining Shares

Sir,—In view of the criticisms, some justifiable, appearing in the press about the speculation in Philippine mining shares, it may be as well to point out, that wherever successful mining ventures are floated new promotions are rapidly brought out for the speculation inevitable in all mining operations to the "get rich quick" gambling instinct, inherent in all humans. The mere mention of Gold, the most sought after of all precious metals, even more desirable than ever to-day, in view of the huge premium it commands at its present price of 138/- per oz., is like a talisman to most of us. So that wherever it is proved to be rich and the results of mining in the Philippines have definitely shown the islands to be rich in it, there would many of us go, were we able. Way back in the last century, we had the Californian gold rush; the "Trail of '98" to Alaska; and the commencement of the great development of the fabulously rich land of South Africa. In these more conservative times and with present day scientific methods of mining, the "old time" miner and would-be gold seeker is largely represented by the speculator in gold mining shares. The results obtained by the successful companies bring about the promotion of many others; some of them good, others mediocre and many worthless. But such are the chances in mining all valuable metals that there is and always will be a big army of wealth seekers who prefer to back the low priced shares of apparently poor promotions, rather than invest in the higher market priced stock of proved undertakings. And something, though perhaps rarely, their faith is rewarded. The history of the Rand, Rhodesia and Tin mining in Malaya can furnish some examples of apparently worthless mines turning up trumps, after, possibly, the installation of new machinery, or under new methods of development. As a general rule, however, it is as well as investors to back the promotions of accredited people, with a reputation behind them in the mining world, for in the long run and after the boom has subsided, it is the mines sponsored by the expert mining and financial organisations which succeed; pay dividends, build up reserves and last to do this for many a year.

The late Mr. Duncan McNeill, formerly of 34 St. Edmunds Road, Ipswich, Suffolk, who died at Larkfield Hospital, Greenock, Renfrew, on August 21, 1935, left local estate to the value of $1,800. An application by Mr. R. A. Watson, solicitor, the lawful attorney, for sealing probate of the will was granted.

Local estate amounting to $34,800, was left by the late Mr. Leung Sing-hang, merchant, who died at Im Po village, Nam Hai, on January 24, 1936. Probate of the will has been granted to Mr. Leung Shun-shi and Leung Cheuk-fan.

structed its Ambassador in Moscow and its Minister in Lisbon to invite those Governments to associate themselves with the principle of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war. The French Government will keep the British Government, which yesterday sent a favourable reply to the French Note on this subject, informed as to the results of its enquiries in other capitals.

The British reply, which has been warmly welcomed in the press, is known to have emphasised the anxiety which the British Government shares with the French as to the consequences which might ensue from support of any of the parties to the Spanish conflict by outside Powers.

While the British Government would undoubtedly welcome an agreement to obviate these risks, it is likely it will have pointed out the necessity to ensure that the result of that agreement should be simultaneously accepted by all the Powers concerned.

There would be objection, however, in the British view to a declaration by the Powers most immediately interested that they would prevent the supply from their territories of arms and munitions of war to Spain, in advance of a general agreement to the same effect. The British Government itself has been acting all along in conformity with the principle of non-intervention, and therefore it would certainly be ready to join in making such a declaration if and as soon as other Governments are prepared to do so.—British Wireless.

GOLD-MINE SHARE PROPAGANDA

Attempts are, we observe, being made, by specious arguments which bear no direct relationship to the issues involved, to keep alive the interest of speculators in the locally-created market for Philippines gold-mining stocks. Suggestions are being thrown out that although the prices of some of these stocks may appear high at the moment, there is a great future for gold as a commodity, with the consequential possibility of appreciation in share values as and when certain properties are further developed. The conjuring up of these glowing prospects is part and parcel of the game to attract foolish people, and is not based on the known outlook of the companies whose stocks figure in the speculative list. In other words, the public is being asked to remain in, or enter, the market on a possibility which may or may not be borne out by events. It is not to be denied that big money has been made by speculators who entered the market in the early days of the boom; this fact is without question being used as bait with a view to keeping alive a movement which is wholly alien to Hongkong and which is having detrimental effects on legitimate business in local stocks and shares. Despite the warnings which have been issued, some members of the local Exchanges still continue to encourage this speculative activity. It is, indeed, little short of astounding that facilities are offered by the Exchanges for this gambling in bits of paper supposedly representing actual holdings in Philippines companies, with no likelihood of scrip changing hands. Such procedure cannot be defended, and we are surprised that reputable members of these organisations do not make some effort to investigate and, if necessary, deal with methods suggested in a recent series of questions which have never yet been answered. Those who have an interest in keeping the speculative movement alive may hope to impress the public by pointing, to possibilities, but the prudent investor will pay more heed to men who are qualified by actual mining experience and knowledge to express their views than they will to assurances by brokers who are out for business.

THE DOCTOR prescribes for YOUR HOLIDAY

By
Doctor

Are you sociable? . . . You will enjoy a cruise.

FEW of us are able to do what we like in this world. We have to adjust ourselves to many things—lack of money, social requirements, family disputes and responsibilities.

It is all the more necessary for the fortnight or more we call "our holidays" during summer, when we go to Japan or Tsingtao, that we strive to combine the thrill of novelty with the satisfaction of physical and mental enjoyment.

The best holiday! You must think hard before you decide. So much depends on a choice which fits with your type and temperament.

Are you very sociable? Do you like human beings in the mass?

Rest Your Mind

If you do—then Japan and Shanghai are more stimulating to you than the scenery of Formosa or French Indo-China.

The only danger is that you may come home more tired than you were when you went away because you have kept up the tension that is the everyday pattern of your life. That, however, can be guarded against, and a holiday that provides new contacts, opportunities for making more friends, has many advantages.

But you must rest in your mind, even when your environment is strenuous.

Sun-bathing, swimming, games and dancing are only the external aspects of a holiday. The psychological factor is what most people overlook.

Your holiday should satisfy unconscious wishes, and cravings and emotions. In every one, there is the primitive savage and the child. Let your holiday, if you work hard, be a play time.

The Children

I ASKED three men and three women what the ideal holiday would be for them.

One man said, "Sailing in a small boat among the Southern Pacific Islands." Another man answered in one word, "Golf." A woman said "Lapland; one of the most delightful countries in Europe."

The other two women and the remaining man declared that they liked the same holiday

Two warnings were recently issued from such reputable quarters—one by the Vice-President of one of the biggest Philippines mining properties, and another by an engineer who is conversant with the position of numerous concerns. These warnings serve to illustrate the point that the present spate of speculation is precisely the kind of thing that the Philippines mining people deplore, because they fear, from a knowledge of what has occurred in other days, that the industry as a whole may thereby acquire a bad reputation. People who are willing to gamble in gold-mining shares without definite and reliable information of the prospects of the companies involved are merely asking for trouble. And brokers who encourage such speculation locally are doing a distinct disservice to the Colony.

every year—Japan with their children.

Children are an important consideration in choosing a holiday. A trip to some peaceful centre—such as Tsingtao or even Cheung Chau—gives parents a good chance to know the minds of their children.

"Nobody has time to speak to me in this house," said a little boy to me the other day. Soon he will reach an age when he will no longer want to talk to his parents.

"Take him with you to visit the little beaten trails of Formosa or the mountains behind Manila," I suggested to his father, because the boy has, as it happens, an interest in the country.

"Anyway," I said, "take him along with you and let him talk and talk, and he won't need psycho-therapeutic treatment when he is twenty."

There is an enormous value in good fatherhood, by which I mean an intimate friendly relationship between a man and his children. Boys and girls should be with their father on holiday—spend as much time with him as with their mother.

What about the best holiday for bachelors and spinsters?

"If I could choose," said one girl to me, "I would have a holiday in an aeroplane. In a few hours I could fly to perfect climates and see places I've always wanted to see."

Actually, a flying holiday for many people would be better medicine than any "rest cure."

We know to-day that nervous breakdown is a misnomer for emotional breakdown, failure to solve one's conflicts. Flying brings some realisation of the vastness of the world, and it may stimulate intellectual curiosity, which is the best antidote for the pain of living in self-absorption.

Strive always for change in choosing a holiday.

If you are tired of life, get a holiday, at once, if you can.

Spend the first day quietly at home, and towards the evening take a physical and mental inventory of yourself.

Are you too fat? Have you flabby muscles? Do you sleep badly and suffer from indigestion?

The mental inventory will be more difficult. Nobody likes to admit he is selfish, indolent, hostile to other people and to life.

The best change for such people is a holiday from the old self, while building up a new and happier personality.

A reconditioning of ourselves, mentally and physically—we all get a chance of doing this on holiday, when we can acquire a better perspective and a new sense of values.

Best Medicine

A "GOOD holiday" need not be a question of money.

If you are a young man, you can easily find a friend who owns a small yacht. Presume on your friendship and beg, borrow or steal this way to good health if you can't take a longer sea trip.

If you are a girl, there are inexpensive trips to many places in the East, or, what is cheaper still, walking tours through our lovely New Territories and the Island.

I know of one woman who simply stayed at home for a holiday. All she did was to change the routine of her house and go off every morning to explore the Colony.

The Best Holiday! It depends neither on money nor opportunity to go wherever you like. It is the spirit and humour and brains you put into these days of leisure which count.

Be sure you choose the type of holiday you are going to enjoy—that is the all-important thing—because joy is the best medicine in the world.

Boys Were Boys Then

READING the other day that few schoolboys of the present generation play truant or indulge in that dangerous pastime, "tormenting the teacher," I was reminded of a certain unruly class that flourished little more than a dozen years ago.

I have often felt that putting ladies in charge of boys between fourteen and sixteen was simply asking for trouble. Male teachers had a difficult enough time, but with merciless youths who, at that time, regarded chivalry as "soft," the lady teachers who had, from time to time, to suffer our carry-on must have felt that theirs was pretty much of a dog's life.

There was one trial of patience—a comparatively mild one, he it said—to which one of the ladies had to submit now and then.

In the brief interval between "periods," all the class crawled beneath the desks. When she marched in, therefore, the room appeared empty. For a minute or two she would work at her register, then, becoming impatient, out she would go to look for us. Needless to say, by the time she returned, her class was sitting quietly in their places. To her great credit it must be said that never once did she inquire where we had been. No doubt she fumed inwardly, but she invariably proceeded immediately with the lesson as if nothing had happened.

It often happened too, that a teacher, having left the room for a moment, returned to find the place in utter darkness and filled with weird, ghostly noises. Who closed the shutters, and who was responsible for the wailing and groaning, were secrets that no teacher ever discovered. There was at least honour among "rowdies."

As for truancy, whenever there was a mid-week game at the neighbouring football park, only those who had no money went to school. Sometimes, when most of us were "flush," there would be fewer than a dozen scholars interested in algebra or literature that afternoon.

Unfortunately for us, one teacher hit upon an apt punishment. If he found himself a victim of soccer enthusiasm, the names of absentees were noted, and next day each received one "bit" for every goal scored. Consequently, while we wanted them to win, we hated to see our favourites score too often, and there was, of course, little truancy when the match looked a "cakewalk"—for the home side.

On one occasion, however, a dozen of us, confident that there would be little scoring, took the afternoon off, and were horrified to see the visitors win by five goals to four.

It must, literally, have hurt that teacher as much as it hurt us, but he stuck to his principle and spent most of his "period" next day raising and lowering the strap one hundred and eight times!

JIMAX.

COURT ACCEPTS WILL TORN UP IN TEMPER

A WILL that was torn up by a man in a temper, thrown on the fire, and retrieved by his wife, was admitted to probate by Mr. Justice Bucknill in the Probate Court recently.

Mr. Albert Bulmer, company director, who formerly lived at Stoke-on-Trent, died leaving £8,000 estate. The executors named in the torn-up will applied to have it admitted to probate, and Mr. Justice Bucknill, giving judgment, said that in the summer of 1932 Mr. Bulmer brought papers, including the will, into his dining-room.

At that time he was worried about finance, and when Mrs. Bulmer asked for a little money for household expenses, he replied that he could not afford it.

Mrs. Bulmer said: "If that is the case there won't be anything for anybody, and the will you have made won't be enough for nine children. There won't be enough for toys for the grandchildren." This made him angry.

The judge added that Mrs. Bulmer, distressed, went into the kitchen. Her husband followed, tore the will up, and threw it on the fire. It was only scorched in one place before it was taken out by Mrs. Bulmer.

"I am inclined to the view," added the judge, "that what the dead man did was done in a temper, possibly to annoy his wife, and that the wife took the pieces out of the fire with his consent. There was no evidence of intention to revoke the will."

TWO REASONS: SPORT—AND WALKING

SIZE 5 IS NOW THE MOST POPULAR SHOE

MODERN Hongkong girls, like their Chinese sisters who have unbound their feet have bigger, broader, and heavier feet than their mothers or grandmothers.

But these bigger feet are fitter, healthier, more flexible, and more beautiful.

The tiny foot is out of fashion, and only a few women limp painfully in shoes 1½ sizes too small for them.

X-RAYED

A well-known local chiropodist said: "The active lives most women lead nowadays is the reason for their larger feet. They refuse to suffer discomfort and will not cramp their feet, which are consequently larger, but more shapely."

A shoe retailer said: "Sport and more walking are the two chief reasons. Women are more sensible regarding their own feet and their children's feet."

"With the X-rays machines now in many shoe-shops they see their toes cramped, and realise the folly of buying small—and tight—shoes for looking alone."

"The most popular size is 5½—6, and when a woman says a 5 she means a 5, and not a 6. It is comparatively uncommon now to find a woman with a 3 or even a 3½ size foot."

THE PERFECT FOOT

HERE is the perfect foot, as described by Dr. Osler Straker, of Vienna University: "It should be three as long as its greatest breadth, and one-seventh of the person's height in its length."

Miss Prunella Stack, of the women's League of Health and Beauty, said: "Women's feet are certainly larger, but they are more shapely, healthy and beautiful."

"Just as a woman has allowed her waist to expand through not wearing rigid corsets, and thereby gained a figure more natural, healthy and beautiful, so have her feet expanded through the sensible wear of sandals and comfortable shoes, and often, throughout the summer, bare feet."

Mr. Ernest Bordoli, secretary of Northampton Town Boot Manufacturers' Association in England has taken a census to act as a guide for production purposes. Here are the findings:

45 per cent. women take sizes 4 and 5.
24 per cent. size 5½.
10 per cent. size 6 and under.
The rest take 6, 6½, and even larger.

DISMISSED AT REQUEST OF EX-WIFE

Chicago, July 31. A sensational end to the £20,000 action against Helen Hayes, the film star, was reached in the Chicago courts to-day, the judge dismissing the claim by Miss Carol Frink, a dramatic critic, at the request of her own counsel.

Miss Frink had alleged that Miss Hayes alienated the affections of her former husband, Mr. Charles MacArthur, playwright of "The Front Page" fame, who is now the husband of Miss Hayes.

Counsel explained that Miss Frink merely wanted "her day in court" to present her side of the case.

"Miss Frink was never a gold-digger," he added. "At no time was this an extortion suit."

TRIED TO BE GAYER

Miss Adela Orniston, a journalist, who interviewed Miss Hayes in 1932, giving evidence earlier to-day, said she recalled Miss Hayes telling her how she had said to Mr. MacArthur: "You haven't even asked to kiss me." Counsel: "Did Miss Hayes tell you something to the effect: 'I used to strain, trying to be gayer and more brilliant than she'?" Miss Orniston: "Yes, that's right."

Miss Frink collapsed in the witness-box after describing her courtship and married life.

Two days before the hearing of her divorce suit, she said, Mr. MacArthur went to her Chicago hotel room and "offered an olive branch."

Next morning, she added, "he came back and made love to me."

Miss Frink also described the manner of Mr. MacArthur's wooing: "All of a sudden," she said, "Charles grabbed me, stepped on my feet, kissed me on the nose and told me he loved me."

Yet, according to Miss Orniston's evidence, Helen Hayes, petite star of many films, had to ask for her first kiss from the same man.—United Press.

Life of Danton to Be Filmed

Los Angeles (California). Dr. Max Reinhardt, the well-known film director, will leave Hollywood shortly for Paris, where he will have a conference with M. Romain Rolland, with a view to the production of a film drama entitled "Danton—Terror of France."

The screen play is to be written by M. Rolland for Warner Brothers. Dr. Reinhardt, who is a native of Austria, directed the production of "A Midsummer-Night's Dream" last year.—Reuter.

PHANTOM ISLAND

A Soviet expedition is setting out this summer to locate mysterious Sannikov Island, nicknamed by explorers "the Phantom of the Arctic."

Sannikov Island was sighted by a merchant named Sannikov travelling from Siberia to European Russia through the Arctic Ocean in the last year of the 18th century. Since that time various explorers have believed that they had sighted Sannikov Island, but none ever succeeded in landing on it.

A legend has grown up that the island is a mere mirage.—Reuter.

Englishman Sets New Mark In 50 Kilometre Walk

TRIPLE FOR THE INCOMPARABLE OWENS

FILIPINO IS INJURED

Berlin, August 5. Sensation piled on sensation here to-day as Olympic records were swept by the board in a magnificent display of athletic prowess by the world's finest performers. Unfortunately among the sensations was a little tragedy. Miguel White, splendid Filipino hurdler, who had previously secured a place in the final of the 20 metres hurdles, tripped over the second obstacle in the 110 metres hurdles to-day and so severely injured himself that his coach later declared it was unlikely White would run again during the Olympics.

Coach Serafin told United Press that White had strained a muscle in the back of the upper part of his leg. White was willing to attempt to be another man in the 400 metre relay, but it is not likely his coach will permit it, as he wishes to protect White's future career which might be irretrievably ruined.

White felt a slight twinge yesterday but thought little of it until he fell in the hurdles.

OWENS THE MAGNIFICENT

Jesse Owens, observes Stewart Cameron the United Press special correspondent at Berlin, took his third Olympic title to-day, and is the first athlete since Paavo Nurmi to secure a triple.

Owens won the 100 metre and broad jump, then completed the sweep by establishing a new Olympic record for the 200 metres. To-day's record is one-tenth below Roland Locke's world top-mark and four-tenths below Owens' own 1935 record which awaits acceptance.

Another record to go by the board to-day was the Discus Throw. Kenneth Carpenter of United States set a new mark in the final, while Tribondia Vala of Italy broke the Olympic record time in the semi-final of the women's 80 metres hurdles. Describing Jesse Owens' effort in returning 20.7 seconds for the 200 metres, Reuter says it is one-tenth second outside of the world's record. Owens made an electrifying start and was well clear after the first 50 metres.

CROWD SILENT IN WONDER

A strange silence settled over the vast stadium as he rounded the final bend and pounded down the straight to win from the American, Mack Robinson, who made a terrific effort but was unable to catch the Negro flash.

Nevertheless for the second time in the event, Robinson returned a time of 21.1 seconds.

CHINESE ATHLETES DO POORLY

50 Kilometre Walk

Berlin, Aug. 5. China's track and field representatives at the World Olympics continue to give rather disappointing displays.

In the 50 kilometre walk to-day, Tsai Wai placed 22 in the time of 5 hrs. 16 mins. 2 4/13 sec. Chow finished 24th in 5:21.1, and Chang came in 25th in 5:26:54 2/10.

In the 60 kilometre walk to-day, came in 25th in 5:26:54 2/10. Competing in the 1,500 metres, Chin was lost throughout the race, and finished 200 yards behind the heat winner, Beccali of Italy in 3 mins. 55 6/10 seconds.

Whitlock of Great Britain scored a triumph in the 50 kilometre walk, winning the event in the Olympic record time of 4 hrs. 30 mins. 41 sec.

Schwab of Switzerland finished second in 4:32:9 2/10 and Bubenko of Latvia was third in 4:32:42 2/10. All of the first six finishers beat Thomas W. Green's 1932 Olympic record of 4:50:10. Green is an Englishman, so that Whitlock's walk to-day enabled Britain to retain a title.—Reuter.

POLE VAULT

Berlin, August 5. In the pole vault event Fu qualified by jumping the necessary 12 ft. 6 ins. Wang did not compete. In throwing the discus Leng and Kuo did not qualify, having failed to clear the necessary 144 ft. 4 ins. Chen scratched.—Reuter.

110 METRES HURDLES

Berlin, August 5. In the 110 metres hurdles race, first round, Ling, who was drawn in lane 3, was level with the leader over the first two hurdles, but gradually dropped back and finished last.

The heat was won by Saley, (America), in 15.0 secs. Wong, who was in the inside lane in his heat, lost ground over the first hurdle and never regained it, being last in the heat.

The winner was Pollard, (America) in 14.7 secs.—Reuter.

DISCUS THROW RECORD

Berlin, August 5. In the final of the discus throw Carpenter, (America) was the winner with a throw of 50.48 metres, an Olympic record.—Reuter.

Earlier in the day, says Reuter, Robinson equalled Owens' Olympic record of 21.1 seconds in winning his semi-final heat in the 200 metres.

After early morning sunshine rain caused a hold-up in the morning and Robinson's feat was therefore meritorious in view of the wet track.

Drive Home Advantages After Half-Time Draw

(By CLAUDE COLBERT)
Sydney Sun

London, July 4. Now for the final of the Rugby League rubber! England defeated Australia by 12 points to 7 in the second Test match on the Brisbane Cricket Ground this afternoon; so now each country has won a Test.

England won the ball frequently from the scrums, and attacked persistently. At half-time, the scores were five all. There were stirring occasions when Edwards scored his two tries, and Crippin crossed after running from his own 25.

It was not only the playing field, but also the stadium.

Early matches were to have started at 3 p.m., but it was decided that they should be cancelled, where an exception of that between Cunningham and Iwchick immediately preceding the Test.

All seating accommodation was occupied early, including that reserved for the Press. Space was made for the newspaper men by the police, but everything was comfortably crowded.

The rate had been insured for £700 against rain between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., but there was a break in the heavy sky, and the weather was not so much much, except over a narrow area occupied by the cricket field.

For nearly an hour before the Test slowly, drizzling rain fell. A strong wind was blowing straight down the ground, and the playing field was like an icy sea, except over a narrow area occupied by the cricket field.

Cunningham and Iwchick provided an excellent match in the conditions, Cunningham winning by 6 to 6.

ENGLISH CHARGE
England had first use of the wind and Brown started the game, the ball going into touch in the English half.

The Englishmen, with the ball at their feet, at once charged to the Australian 22, from where Thicknesse, Norman and Iley handled.

Iley kicked, and then a penalty went to Beaton, from outside the 22. Hodgson just missed the goal.

Brown got touch near the English 25 from following a penalty, but could not get the ball back to half-way. England was winning the ball and once, when Jenkins kicked over the line, Beaton had to force his line, and then Beaton kicked the ball.

Watkins and Heverley cleverly put England on the attack, but Heverley was hit out on the attack, and the ball back to half-way. England was winning the ball and once, when Jenkins kicked over the line, Beaton had to force his line, and then Beaton kicked the ball.

The drop out from between the posts was a clever try, and when Hodgson missed, the goal England led, 3 to nil.

Australia went down to the English 22, following a penalty, but could not get the ball back to half-way. England was winning the ball and once, when Jenkins kicked over the line, Beaton had to force his line, and then Beaton kicked the ball.

England was having all the better of the game now, penalties alone saving Australia from a bad time.

One kick by Brown went into the English 22, but again getting the ball, Watkins passed to Brown, who got touch in the Australian half.

RISMAN'S GOAL
Hodgson had another go at goal from a penalty, but he missed, and the ball back to half-way. England was winning the ball and once, when Jenkins kicked over the line, Beaton had to force his line, and then Beaton kicked the ball.

Australia had a narrow escape when Beaton, after fielding a kick by Brown, passed to Watkins, who was hit out on the attack, and the ball back to half-way. England was winning the ball and once, when Jenkins kicked over the line, Beaton had to force his line, and then Beaton kicked the ball.

Edwards went like a flash, and side-stepped Beaton, who was hit out on the attack, and the ball back to half-way. England was winning the ball and once, when Jenkins kicked over the line, Beaton had to force his line, and then Beaton kicked the ball.

TRY FOR CRIPPIN
Australia was doing better in the scrums now, but once from a dropped ball Arkwright sent the ball to Heverley, who ran well and kicked down to the Australian 22, getting the ball, tried for a field goal, but the ball went dead.

Watkins, Iwchick and Beaton made ground with passing, and then Hodgson made a dash, he lost the ball, and Crippin, feeling it so the better at his own 25, ran magnificently, and just beating Brown's tackle, crossed in the corner, and then ran round to score between the posts. When Beaton scored the scores were goal.

Australia was now playing finely, and after Thicknesse, Norman and Iley handled, Brown broke through with a dummy. England came again, and Beaton just saved.

England pressed boldly, and Heverley was nearly over, Thicknesse kicked to through, and he returned it to Heverley, who put his foot to it, and going on, downed Slicker in the English 22.

Beaton, Price and Pearce had Australia attacking, but Watkins cleverly cleared the danger zone.

England then attacked until half-time, which came with the scores 5-5.

SECOND HALF OPENS
Australia 5.
The breeze had dropped a little when the second half began, with Brown kicking off. The ball went to Brown, who was downed, and Heverley to Iley, who was downed.

Arwright sent Australia back to half-way, and England won the first two scrums. As a result, the game was in Australia's 25.

The scrums in a row went to England, who were not doing any good with the ball. They scored the next, but Brown got the ball, made a great run, and passed to Curran, to Heverley, who was brought down near England's 25.

Then England came back, but their handling was not good, and once, when a ball was dropped, Norman went fast and downed Heverley.

Pearce bumped off a couple of men, and then came a great haul, with Brown, Price, and Heverley in it, to reach the English 25.

Beaton and Brown in turn drove Australia back to half-way, and then, getting the ball from Watkins, Jenkins broke through finely and kicked for the corner. From the scrum, Watkins established, but Price saved well.

Then Jenkins tried a snap shot at goal but missed. England was hit out on the attack, but Crippin saved grandly. Then Norman stopped Edwards after Jenkins had made a dash.

Moss and Brown were almost in, each just missing a score.

ENGLAND PERSISTENT
Beaton and Brown in turn drove Australia back to half-way, and then, getting the ball from Watkins, Jenkins broke through finely and kicked for the corner. From the scrum, Watkins established, but Price saved well.

Then Jenkins tried a snap shot at goal but missed. England was hit out on the attack, but Crippin saved grandly. Then Norman stopped Edwards after Jenkins had made a dash.

Moss was taken to Leeds General Infirmary, where the shoulder was reset, and within an hour he returned to the college with his arm in a sling and attended a lecture.

It was during the match with Beaton in March 1935, that Moss met with his first serious shoulder injury. He had an operation in a Newcastle nursing home, and turned out for Arsenal after a long rest.

He broke down again during the game with Blackburn Rovers last February and has not played since.

K.I.T.C. TO BE TESTED

By Kowloon Tong

TO-DAY'S LEAGUE TENNIS

Kowloon Tong, at one time among the most formidable of the challengers for the "C" Division tennis league championship, will to-day endeavour to lower the colours of the hitherto invincible Kowloon Indian Tennis Club.

The match is being played at Kowloon Tong and more than passing interest will be centred in the meeting between the unbeaten Hussain brothers, and the "Tong's" equally clever Chan brothers combination.

It cannot be conceded that Kowloon Tong have quite such a well-balanced team as the Indians, but they possess two very useful pairs who have held their own very well to date. If the Indians are to preserve their 100 per cent. record they will have to be on top form. The slightest falling-away may easily cost them two points when opposed to such a useful side as Kowloon Tong.

Club de Recreio should win with the greatest of ease at K.C.C., and none of the other matches have any bearing on the championship.

The full programme for to-day is as follows:

"C" DIVISION

H.K.U.T.C.	v. K.C.C. (1)

BATTED 3 DAYS FOR 6 RUNS

Patience Of G. O. Allen

London, July 10. G. O. Allen (Middlesex captain) batted on all three days of the Middlesex match with Nottingham for an innings of 6 not out. Like this:—

Saturday: not out 0; Monday: not out 3; Yesterday: increased to not out 6.

He went in just before the close on Saturday; on Monday there was only eighteen minutes' play because of rain; and yesterday, in the ten minutes cricket possible before lunch, the Middlesex innings was completed.

A patience test? Well, Allen is expected to go to Australia next winter for England's captain. And Test matches there are marathons—played to a finish.

His best game

Perhaps the best remembered game throughout the tournament was the one in which he engaged the clever veteran Ng Sui-sang, c-devant champion of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., in a terrific battle of wits. The large gathering of spectators were greatly impressed by the daring strategy of the young master, who, in the course of the game, deliberately sacrificed both his characters, the most powerful pieces in cheng ki, to effect a most spectacular checkmate. The players were given a great ovation when they rose.

CHINESE CHESS PRODIGY

CHINESE BOY CHESS PRODIGY

MAKES DARING COUPS

The local Open Chinese Chess (cheng ki) Championship, promoted by the South China Athletic Association, has been won by a boy prodigy of fourteen, Master Mak Shui-man. The tournament, which was concluded on Thursday last, proved very popular. Large numbers of chess enthusiasts thronged the auditorium of the Confucian Association every evening, Tuesday and Saturday.

The results, accompanied by detailed records and critical remarks by competent chess experts, were published day after day in all leading vernacular papers, and were eagerly read and discussed by all classes of people.

Besides Mak Shui-man, the contestants included such luminaries as Kong Ku-won, Ng Sui-sang, Chan Tak-pul, Tang Ti-yu (former champion of Hongkong), Ho Sing-mo and many others. Kong Ku-won, who has to his credit a smart victory over the great master Chow Tak-yu, generally regarded as China's foremost cheng ki exponent, was beaten into second place by a single point; while Ho Sing-mo, the youngest player in the tournament, being only twelve, showed great promise, and ironically enough, he gained the distinction of being the only player to win a game from the champion.

Mak Shui-man, the champion, who had 15 wins, nine draws, and one defeat, possessed all the qualities that go to make him one day a great master. His rare patience, calmness, and concentration of mind are perhaps his greatest assets. He refuses to be hurried in the most obvious moves, or upset by grave threats of defeat. It is interesting to watch him calmly extricating himself from a seemingly hopeless position, often completely turning the tables and inflicting a crushing defeat on his opponent by a master stroke.

TWO LAWN BOWLS RINKS CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES

CRAIGENGOWER FOUR WINS AFTER KEEN GAME

In spite of a heavy green, an exciting match was witnessed at the Police Recreation Club yesterday afternoon in the quarter-finals of the Lawn Bowls rinks championship, when a Craigen-gower rink skipped by R. F. da Luz defeated W. Macfarlane's Kowloon Bowling Green Club rink by 20 shots to 17. This is the second Craigen-gower rink to enter the semi-final round, the other being U. M. Omar's four.

The Craigen-gower rink yesterday comprised of J. S. Landolt, A. S. Gomes, W. V. Field and Laz, and the Kowloon Bowling Green Club rink of J. Watson, R. Hall, J. Fraser and Macfarlane.

It was anybody's game until the end. The winners took the lead on the first eight heads, when they scored nine shots to their opponents' eight, but the scores were levelled at nine-all on the next head. At this stage, the losers made a spurt and took the lead with a score of 13-10 on the 13th head, but a four by Luz's rink on the 14th head gave them the lead by one shot.

The remaining heads were then keenly contested, and some fine bowling was seen. The scores were again levelled at 14-all on the 15th head, after which the winners gradually forged ahead. The 16th head was the best in the match, all the woods clustering round the 'jack' with two Craigen-gower woods touching to give two shots to the winners.

On the 20th head, the winners were only three shots ahead, and the losers lay three shots, but Luz with his last wood carried the 'jack' from a difficult position to give his side two shots, and a lead of five. The losers made a gallant attempt to score five on the last head, but only got two.

It was altogether a fine game. It would be difficult to select any individual player for special mention, as all of them played well at different stages of the match. Luz did not find the heavy green to his liking, but towards the close, sent down some fine woods, and his effort on the 20th head undoubtedly won his side the match.

His opponents' scored three on this head, they might have won. The winners scored on eleven heads, and the losers on ten. The match was originally arranged to have been played on the Civil Service green, but as that was closed owing to its being too wet, the match was played on the Police green.

POOR QUALITY BOWLS

Bowling of an extraordinarily poor standard was seen at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club yesterday when H. A. Alves's rink, comprising L. F. Xavier, L. J. Silva and P. V. V. Ribeiro, defeated L. A. Gutierrez's four (F. A. Xavier, J. M. M. Alves and E. M. P. Remedios) by 24 shots to 11 in the Open Rink championship.

All the players seemed to be affected by the heavy conditions of the green, sending down woods which seldom went near the 'jack', while the substantial lead gained by the winners in the early part of the game, robbed much of its interest.

The winners took the lead in the first two heads in the course of which they scored five shots. Gutierrez and his colleagues then not only drew level but actually took the lead by scoring on the next four heads. The following head, however, saw the winners regain their lead which they maintained throughout. The winners scored on twelve heads as against their opponents' nine.

MATCH POSTPONED

Owing to the wet state of the Kowloon C.C. green, the semi-final match in the Pairs Championship between J. E. Noronha and F. X. M. da Silva, of the Club de Recreio, and S. A. Bright and J. E. Benson, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, was not played yesterday.

MODERN SWIMMING BATH FOR LONDON

INSTRUCTIONAL POOL

The Holborn Borough Council, who intend to replace the present obsolete public baths at Broad-street with "the finest swimming pool in London," are soon to advertise a competition, open to all architects, for plans for the new baths, reports the Evening Standard, and.

It is hoped that the baths will be built within two years.

"Our aim," the Holborn Town Clerk said, "is to provide London with a swimming bath which will attract the very finest of the international swimming and diving events."

MEASURED IN METRES

"For that reason, the proposed size of the bath has been worked out in metres. It will have to be 150 metres long and some 50 metres wide.

"To comply with the international diving competition rules, it will be 15ft. deep at one end.

"The committee in charge of the matter have taken enormous trouble to see that the bath shall be as up to date as possible.

"We have visited most of the modern swimming baths in the country, and have obtained many photographs of those on the Continent. Every modern improvement in the bath itself and in the cubicles will be incorporated.

LARGE RESTAURANT

Architects who submit plans will have to conform to certain stipulated conditions. They will have to include a large restaurant in the building, and probably it will be placed around the bath, so that spectators at the tables in the restaurant will have a clear view of the bath itself.

As in the present baths at Broad-street, there will be two pools, the smaller one an instructional pool. In order to make room for the new bath, the present one will be pulled down, and so will some adjoining shops. The new building will also extend over an adjoining site of the old Christ Church, which is now used as a car park.

Owing to their central position, the present baths at Broad-street are very much used. The total attendances now are about 380,000 a year. Many famous swimming clubs use the baths, including those of several Government departments, the Post Office, the Bank of England and several of the big insurance companies.

The smaller of the two baths in the present building is one of the oldest in London, and is believed to have been built between 80 and 90 years ago.

Australian Athletes In Form

AT WHITE CITY

London, June 29.

The Australians started off well in the British athletic championship at the White City today. Metcalfe and Dickinson gained first and second places respectively in the 100 yds. and 200 yds. races. The only event completed to-day.

Their figures can safely be reckoned as worth at least another foot on a firm cinder track as the grass taken off was muddy and badly cut up. Nevertheless, to-day's performances slightly exceed what they have been achieving in practice on Berlin's perfect hegan.

Both consider that their figures, in the miserable conditions, exceed expectations at the present stage of their training, seeing that they arrived in London only 24 hours before the meeting began.

In other field events, Metcalfe, Dickinson, and Woodhouse all qualified for the finals, without undue exertion.

A better indication of their Olympic prospects will be obtainable to-morrow. Meanwhile, Metcalfe's victory is an assurance that he should be well in the running for the Olympic title.

RUNNER'S PERFORMANCES

Making allowances for their incomplete training and the fact that they were not competing with great hopes of lifting titles, the performances of the runners were less encouraging.

Watson drew an inside position, and, hurdlings beautifully, seemed likely to win his heat until the second last hurdle, after which he dropped back so badly that he narrowly escaped elimination.

Watson's heat, however, was the fastest of the three.

Backhouse drew an outside position and ran the first-mile neatly in second position, but whipped in the field for the whole of the last lap, and finished 60 yards last.

Backhouse did not compete in the half-mile.

LOVELOCK IMPRESSES

Love-lock waited till the last minute before deciding to run in the mile instead of the three miles.

The masterly ease with which he finished his heat to-day, being content with second place, created a good impression.

Obstruction by Jenkins got Australia out of a corner. Australia could not get the ball at all, once more England attacked. The England scored. Jenkins cross-kicked. Edwards got it and sent the ball tripping. In a similar spot to the first, Hansen kicked a grand goal and England led 10 to 6.

BROWN KICKS GOAL

Australia came well. Thicknesse passing to Norman, to Brown, who kicked. Jenkins moved by going over the dead ball line. Then they sent the ball to Crippin, who was just into touch a yard from the corner.

Australia maintained the attack until a penalty enabled England to reach Australia's 25. There was an exchange of nominations kicking between several men. Then England attacked once more.

The half went dead, and Australia reached the English half, and Brown kicked into touch on the full.

From there Brown had his first shot at goal. It was from close to half-way, but the ball fell short.

Then another penalty came to Australia, and Brown, having this one, England led by 10 to 7.

Thicknesse, Pearce, and Stoker handled nicely. Silcock was offside, and Australia attacked only to be penalised. England got down to the Australian 26, but was in turn penalised.

England returned, and Armit nearly scored when he knocked down a pass from Crippin. They were offside with a scrum down close to the goal, and Holman, landing the goal, England led by 12 to 7.

Pringle put Australia on the attack with a stab kick, but the forwards could not get the ball. Once when they did they missed behind to Brown, and Holman was nearly through.

Then Holman made a run, but Crippin closed his pass. Holman tried for goal, but the ball went dead.

Next Silcock made a dash to enter the English half, and then Holman and Crippin and they combined finely in a long dash which took play to the English 25.

Thicknesse, Norman, and Crippin, working the blind, were nearly in, but Australia was forced back, and the game ended with through running into touch near his line. England won 12 to 7, and thus each side has won a Test. England won 47 scrums to 24.

Full Time Scores:
England 12.
Australia 7.

WHAT I SAW IN RUSSIA—3

I WENT to the Palace of Labour in Moscow to see some Trade Union friends. It was still raining heavily. The building seemed unchanged since I was there in 1925. There was a uniformed man on the door and a small antiquated lift which carried more than two people. This big building with its long corridors was formerly a "Home for Orphans."

What became of the orphans when the Unions came here I do not know. The Secretary of the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions had a large office with two secretaries working there, and an inner room protected against eavesdropping by a double door built into a sort of partition.

Naturally, I cannot go into any details of a conversation of such a private character, but I shall give some general references. One of the officials set out to tell me about the Trade Unions. He said the rules and authority of the Trade Unions had changed with the development of the Soviet power.

Because of the growth of the Trade Union membership, they had become too highly centralised. They divided the twenty-three original Unions which existed when I was here in 1925, and which then had a membership of 63 millions, into forty-seven Unions. These were still too large, and after a time they arranged for 154 Unions. Since that time nine further Unions had been added to make a total of 163. There were still 14 to 16 per cent. of the workers who were not in the Trade Unions, and they felt that smaller Unions could more effectively cater for these men. The Unions still retained their basis of one Union for a given industry, but they had gone in for more specialisation. For example, in the machine-building industry they had now factories specialising on the making of lathes. Consequently, instead of having the members all in one heavy metal workers' Union, they now have a special Union for lathe-makers. They had already found that this change in formation was giving good results and more attention was being paid to the interests of the members. Russia had now working-class engineers in the principal administrative positions in the factories. They were no longer dependent on the former intelligentsia, whom they had to watch carefully. I could see where this was leading. It was going to be put to me as the reason why they no longer needed Trade Union representation on the factory management. The official proceeded to say that this change affected the rôle of the Trade Unions with regard to the administration. The State had now handed over to the Trade Unions in the latter part of 1933 the full control of payments for social insurance.

These powers were formerly exercised by the Commissariat for Labour, which had been done away with and its work taken over by the Trade Unions. This meant that the Trade Unions had to exercise many new and complicated functions. For example, the protection of labour—by which he meant the provision of safety regulations and apparatus—such as are provided by our Factory Acts—necessitated the engagement of technical engineers to make sure that adequate protection was being afforded. The Unions had now two main functions: (a) the protection of labour and (b) the administration of social insurance. These had actually increased the power of the Trade Unions.

The question of raising wages was not a matter of struggle, like it was in capitalist countries, but a matter of arrangement in the planning of the Soviet economy. The Director of a Soviet industry was not paying out his own money to his workers, or the money of his shareholders. He had no interest in trying to avoid paying the proper wages provided by agreements.

I POINTED out that it was too much to assume a complete identity of interest between the Director and the worker. The Director was concerned principally with efficiency and output, and the worker with the amount he could earn and the conditions under which it was earned. I asked what part did the Trade Unions play in the fixation of wages under the plan. I was told that the plan went from the bottom to the top of industry and then after revision went back the opposite way.

In general, the Planning Commission knew what the following year's working would be. Then they allotted to every industry its particular task. Then the Commissary for various industries allotted the task for each factory. The factory administration then came into the matter and discussed the question with the workers through the Factory Committee and the Trade Unions. If they had any objection or alterations to make, these were reported to the central trade union, and the Commissariat of Labour for the industries concerned. Then the plan was submitted again to the Planning Commission, and if there was still a dispute, this would be remitted to the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions, who discussed the matter with the Government. It was argued that they had, by this means, adequately protected the wages of the workers better than Unions could possibly do in any capitalist country. There was no country in the world where the workers were so enthusiastic in their work. Had I not noticed that?

I replied that I had, but that I had also noticed that there was no other country in the world where monetary inducements to the workers were emphasised and exploited more than in Soviet Russia. I said there was more intensive piece-work, bonus systems and general attempts to speed up by hard work than I had ever seen. I was sure that the proportion of piece-work to time-work would bear this out. I said the workers I had seen were working very hard and the women were doing arduous and severe tasks which in a Socialist state was quite unjustifiable. They were performing physically hard work, such as digging drains in the streets, ordinary navy's work, pulling down houses, and in short the very kind of work which in Great Britain we tried to protect them from. I said the pace at which the workers were induced, by one means or another, to work was far too high.

With such a slight industrial training, they would pay for it in years to come in the adverse effects it would have on their health. Against this, I recognised that they were going in for sport more than they had ever done previously, and that factory hygiene was very good.

THE Trade Unions, I felt, were too much concerned with the output, and too little concerned with the real protection of the worker. I asked what they had done to defend the standard of life of the worker during the first Five Year Plan? Did not the plan provide for an increase of 74 per cent. in real wages in the final year? Actually was there not a definite reduction in the standard of life, because of inflation and high prices?

There was some consultation about this. They denied that there

avoidable, because of the necessity for providing adequate defence against the capitalist countries who threatened to attack Russia. They further said that the second Five Year Plan provided for an increase of two and a half times the living standard of 1933, and this was in fact already being realised. I said I would require much more convincing evidence of this than I had seen up to date. They said the real issue to determine was whether Socialism or Capitalism was best, and in their circumstances whether they should have given up Socialism. I pointed out they had never had Socialism. "The brand of what you call 'Socialism' operated here is something which I cannot recognise as Socialism. It is certainly not Social Democracy. It is more like State Capitalism."

"ACCENT ON YOUTH"

MOTHER SAYS "I KNEW HIM"

MYSTERY OF WAR MEMORIAL

(By a Correspondent).

Southend, July 24.
ALL Southend is talking tonight about the dramatic return to his mother's home in South Benfleet of Stoker Petty, Officer John Evans who was reported killed at the Battle of Jutland in 1916 and whose name is engraved on a war memorial.
Mrs. Warren, who is 86, said to-day: "When my son came to the door he asked for lodgings, but I recognised him almost immediately. It gave me a great shock. Every time now I hear a knock at the door—I fancy it is someone coming to take him away from me again."

This evening I asked Evans in what ship he served at the battle.
He replied: "I remember nothing.
I've been round everywhere, working, and if I can get a job here I shall anchor here. If I can't, I shall go and anchor elsewhere."
He refused to tell me where the memorial is on which his name is engraved as killed in action.

"I WAS SURE"

A married daughter of Mrs.
Warren said: "My mother is very ill in bed. My brother came home yesterday. It was a great shock to all of us; we had not seen him since before the Great War."

"I also saw him and recognised him. I was certain that it was my brother."

Mrs. Martin, a neighbour, described how Mrs. Warren came to her in a state of great excitement yesterday, and told her that her "dead" sailor son had just returned.
"She was so agitated that she could not keep still," said Mrs.
Martin.
"She said it was almost unbelievable, because a comrade told her years ago that he had actually seen her son shot down during the battle."

UNREST

London, Aug. 6.
Greek circles in London state that the principal reason for the establishment of a dictatorship in Greece and the dissolution of Parliament is apparently the fact that the Communists hold the balance of power in the elections, held on the proportional representation system, resulted in the Venezuelists and their opponents being returned at almost equal strength, and the Communists, with fifteen seats, were able to control the voting.

legedly enabled the Communist De-

The London, Midland and Scottish Railway, which pays a water rate of £300,000 annually, expects to save 3,075,000 gallons of water each day as the result of a device now being fitted to the scoops of long-distance express locomotives which take up water from troughs while travelling at full speed.—British Wireless.

WOMEN HOAX
SENATOR
Paris, July 25.
A French Senator, M. Merlin, was hoaxed by suffragettes to-day.
Parcel after parcel was delivered to him. Every one contained rattlers, teddy bears and rocking horses—until his hall looked like an overcrowded toy department.
The explanation came when a dozen suffragettes with musical instruments began to play nursery tunes opposite his house.
Senator Merlin is a prominent antagonist of the woman's vote, and this was the women's way of showing him they consider he has reached second childhood.
In desperation Senator Merlin telephoned for the police who removed the suffragettes.

Hauptmann Leaves All to Wife

New York, July 28.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who was electrocuted on April 4 for murdering the Lindbergh baby, has left all his property and belongings to his "beloved wife, Anna."

The will, which has just been filed, was made on January 13, 1933—20 months before Hauptmann's arrest for the Lindbergh crime.

The estate amounts to less than £200.

In the event of his wife's death, Hauptmann directed that one half of his property should go to his mother and the rest to his wife's parents, who are living in Germany.

The address on the will is that of the house in the Bronx, New York, where nearly $3,000 of the Lindbergh ransom money was found.

MAN IS GRILLED, JUST SMILES

New York, July 25.

Edward Freed, restaurateur turned by "Scarface" Al Capone into a night-club manager during Prohibition, to-day surrendered to the Chicago police for questioning in connection with the "jealousy murder" of blonde Audrey Vallette.

Audrey, convent girl turned by Prohibition into a gold-digger, butterfly, and drunkard, was found shot last Thursday. Immediately after the shooting a brunette fled from Audrey's apartment and has since been identified as Carmelia Freed, wife of Edward Freed.

"Police believe that Freed is the 'Eddie' referred to in affectionate drinking left by the murdered girl."

Freed was asked by detectives: "Where have you been?" "With relatives," he replied. "Did you know Audrey Vallette well enough to cause your wife to become jealous?" Freed smiled, placed a fatherly hand on his questioner's shoulder, said: "When I know more about this matter I'll talk."

SOME DIETS CAN BE DANGEROUS

Kansas City, Mo., July 20.

To add to the accusations against the drug Dinitrophenol when used to aid in reducing weight, Dr. Warren D. Horner of San Francisco has reported on case histories of 60 women who suffered unsuspected troubles.

The fifty, young and middle aged, developed cataracts of the eyes. The cataracts developed exactly as do those of elderly people, Horner revealed. Within a few weeks, the victims reached a point at which they could see only the movements of their hands.

Extraction of the cataracts yields results comparable to extraction in other diseases, but no treatment has been found that will retard their growth.

DRAMA BEHIND ROYAL DIVORCE SUIT

A DRAMATIC STORY LIES BEHIND THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT COUNTSSESS CAVADONGA HAS APPLIED TO THE CUBAN COURTS AND THE PAPAL ROTA TO SECURE THE ANNULMENT OF HER MARRIAGE TO THE FORMER PRINCE OF THE ASTURIAS, ELDEST SON OF EX-KING ALFONSO OF SPAIN.

It is now revealed that the countsess anticipated only by a few hours the moves of her husband with the same end in view.

The countsess and the prince were married on June 21, 1933, after the prince had failed to obtain the consent of his parents to the union with a commoner, Senorita Eleonora San Pedro Ochoa, as the bride, the daughter of a wealthy Cuban planter, was named.

It was understood at the time that the prince had agreed to renounce his rights to the throne in favour of a younger brother, and it was only on that understanding, or the withdrawal of the family opposition, that the family of the bride consented to the marriage.

It was also understood that the health of the prince, which had up to then been deemed too precarious to make it wise for him to marry, had definitely improved as the result of treatment he had undergone at the hands of a Swiss specialist.

There was a formal meeting of the young people with ex-king Alfonso, and it was then assumed that the family opposition would be withdrawn.

As long ago as early in 1934 intimate friends of the countsess and the prince knew that serious trouble had arisen between them.

The improved health of the prince, it was stated, had not been maintained, and the bride also learned that effect had not been given to the renunciation of his rights to the Spanish throne.

TO ORGANIST

A CHURCH organist was awarded £500 damages against a churchwarden whom he cited as co-respondent in the London Divorce Court recently.

Before Mr. Justice Langton and a common jury, Mr. Bertram Ivor Helliwell, a chartered secretary, of Imperial Drive, North Harrow, Middlesex, was granted a decree nisi for divorce from Mrs. Dorothy Ethel Helliwell, and £500 damages against Mr. Wilfred Reginald Hurst.

Mr. Hurst, who is a registrar of births, marriages and deaths, lives in the same road.

Mr. Helliwell charged his wife, whom he married in April, 1927, with adultery with Mr. Hurst in his motor-car in a lane at Pinner, one night last November. Mrs. Helliwell and co-respondent denied the adultery and defended the suit.

HOLIDAYS TOGETHER

Mr. Helliwell's case was that he and Mr. Hurst were neighbours, foundation members of the same Masonic Lodge, and honorary organist and churchwarden, respectively, of the same church.

They and their wives went for holidays together, and he had occasion to protest about Mrs. Helliwell's association with Mr. Hurst.

Summing-up, Mr. Justice Langton said they had, in this case, the history of a respondent wife and a married co-respondent both over 40 years of age, who had admitted they were in love.

"NOT CHILDREN"

They were not children, and the jury would ask themselves why people of mature age should go together after dark in a motor-car to a lane which was practically a cul-de-sac and a comparatively sheltered place?

They had sworn that nothing happened there.

"There is a sentimental age, which we may all have passed through," remarked his lordship. "We have, perhaps, laughingly, observed young people holding thumbs on the top of an omnibus. It is for you to consider whether, in your experience, that stage lasts very long."

It is of importance to remember that these people were of a mature age, who knew the dangers and difficulties to which, in the circumstances of their case, they were exposing themselves.

The jury found the allegation of adultery proved.

London, Aug. 1.

Although they want to start on a flight around the world together by the end of August, Jim and Amy Mollison are still hunting for a suitable plane.

Amy said in an interview that if they could not get a big machine in time, they might make the attempt in two small planes and keep together. Mrs. Mollison went on to explain that they would first fly from England to Australia, and then across the Pacific, stopping at Fiji and Honolulu. From San Francisco they would fly across the American continent and then make an Atlantic flight back to England, covering 27,000 miles in all.

It just cannot help doing long-distance flights," she added, looking back over her amazing career of the past few years, since she made her solo flight to Australia.

"The flight around the world which Jim and I have planned is not easy, because one of the three long hops will be 3,100 miles across the Pacific. Then we must carry sufficient petrol for 4,000 miles, and that is equivalent to the weight of 20 men, yet it must be carried in a plane built for two."

Becoming more confidential, Amy went on:

"Husband and wife cannot both be right, and as Jim has much greater flying experience than I have I bow to his experience, although I often shout, 'you are wrong and I am right.' But there are ways of making it up, and it is rather fun afterwards for both husband and wife to acknowledge they were in the wrong."

EXILES PAY HOMAGE TO GRAND DUKE

Paris, July 28.

Once or twice a year there is held in Republican Paris a royal court reflecting some of the vanished glory of the pre-war Czarist regime. "The sovereign" is the Grand Duke Cyril, head of the exiled house of Romanoff and first cousin of the late Czar.

He has just bestowed the highest Russian title of Princess of the Dan on Lady Deterding, former wife of Sir Henry Deterding.

The grand duke lives the private life of a country gentleman in the little French fishing village of St. Breluc, in Brittany.

But in the minds and hearts of the White Russians, who fled abroad in the Bolshevik revolution, he is their emperor.

So, when this tall, bronzed, distinguished-looking man comes to Paris, news of his arrival is flashed round the Russian colony.

It travels from taxicab drivers to restaurant kitchens, from mannequins in dressing-rooms to fashionable houses. "His Majesty will receive his subjects to-morrow night."

RECEPTION

They craved into the rooms where the reception is taking place. The young women, beautifully dressed, work as mannequins, their menfolk as waiters, porters, and taxicab drivers.

They stand in a semi-circle waiting for their emperor. A new light comes into their eyes as slowly he goes round, speaking a few words to each, recognising an old friend here, shaking hands with one of his former aides-de-camp there.

The men click their heels and bow, women curtsy low as he passes.

Then, as the emperor retires, waiters bring in vodka, champagne, and caviare, and for a few hours more they live 'their lives over again.

Then back they go to their homes and their drab, everyday existence, while the emperor returns to his little fishing village in Brittany.

New York, July 21.

JUST because his wife made caustic remarks about President Roosevelt, former United States Senator C. C. Dill sought a divorce at Spokane, Washington, to-day.

Said Mr. Dill: "I thought my wife was a supporter of the President."

"She seemed to think he was all right, too, until she invited him to make a speech at a Peace League meeting which she arranged."

"He declined on some polite excuse, and after that my wife had no use for him."

While he was at Washington he was continually asked: "What's the matter with your wife. She's making unnecessary remarks about the President."

Under cross-examination Dill told of his wife's presentation at Buckingham Palace in 1929. He didn't want to go, he said, because of the expense.

"I told her I'd take advantage of the trip to study radio conditions in Europe."

"While she was being presented I just walked around the streets and maybe went to show."

"I guess I had other complaints about my Roosevelt-hating wife. She was a bad housekeeper and embarrassed me by her dress habits."

"She buried dogs in the backyard and publicly asserted that I drank like a fish."

PACIFIC OIL

Three Nations Seek Supremacy

San Francisco, July 31.

A triangular fight for the discovery and development of new oil fields in the Pacific area is now under way by three of the major powers bordering thereon.

The competitors are the United States, Japan and Australia.

While the California oil fields are being constantly increased and developed to an extent to insure for many years to come more than enough oil for the commercial and defensive needs of the Pacific coast, Japan and Australia have now entered the field in an effort to develop self-sufficient supplies of their own.

JAPAN'S PROGRESS

Of the two latter countries, Japan has already made the most progress in the discovery, development and financial organization of new fields, but now Australia has also taken the first steps to insure her own supply.

Advices just received from Canberra announce that the Commonwealth government has not only decided on a brisk forward policy for the production of oil for Australia, but has made available the sum of $1,250,000 to be used as loans on a dollar for dollar basis in aiding companies drilling in localities adjudged most favourable to the existence of well oil.

Protection from outside competition is also to be given to the extent of present customs, namely 14 cents per gallon, and excise duties of 11 cents per gallon on all gasoline derived from shale up to 10,000,000 gallons annually for the period of twenty years.

Information in the possession of the Australian government, the advices assert, points favourably to well oil in Australia and New Guinea. The money now made available is to be devoted not to geological surveys—which have already been made over considerable areas—but to definitely ascertaining if supplies actually exist in commercial quantities in chosen places.

The assistance being given by the government for shale oil production is evidenced by the fact that the oil is produced on the ground of defense needs rather than purely economic grounds. Offers are to be invited from companies prepared to operate on the shale seams on Newnes in New-South Wales especially.

The government has also undertaken the investigation of low temperature carbonization processes, but it will not be another year before it is known whether these hydrocarbon processes now in operation at the Imperial Chemical Industries' English plant will justify the creation of a similar plant in Australia.

Pending the development of its own oil fields and supplies, the Australian defence department has undertaken the construction of the two largest storage tanks in Australia. These will be situated on Chowder Bay, Sydney Harbour, and will have a capacity of 12,000 tons of oil each for defensive purposes. Three other 8,000 tons tanks have already been completed at Darwin, one of the strategic points of Australia.

In the meantime, Japan has already progressed much further in her efforts to develop oil fields of her own sufficient to meet both her defensive and commercial needs.

JAPANESE IN JAVA

For the time being her efforts are being centred in Java, Sumatra and Borneo.

The discovery of fields there together with possibilities of oil which the Australian government have found in New Guinea lead some oil experts to think that an oil field in the southern Pacific may exist similar to that along the Californian coast.

In Borneo two companies have been operating with a total production of 15,000 barrels daily during the past year.

The present effort of Japan to extend these fields to an extent where it will have a nearby source of oil is being sponsored jointly by the Japanese ministers of the Army, Navy, Foreign Affairs and the Colonies.

Already a combine has been effected by the Mitsui, Mitsubishi and Sumitomo interests, to operate under the new fuel policy of the Japanese government. It is capitalized at $6,000,000 yen, or approximately $16,000,000.

Preliminary expenditures of 1,000,000 yen have already been authorized.

The first concrete step in the Japanese control of the crude oil sources already discovered and in operation calls for the consolidation of the Mitsui Trading Company and the Borneo Oil Co., which would thus become Japanese controlled.—United Press.

Mining Shares

Sir,—In view of the criticism, some justified, appearing in the local press about the speculation in Philippine mining shares, it may be as well to point out that wherever successful mining ventures are brought out, for the speculation inevitable in all mining appears to be the "get rich quick" gambling instinct, inherent in all humans. The mere mention of Gold, the most sought after of all precious metals, even more desirable than ever today, in view of the huge premium it commands at its present price of 138 1/2 per oz., is like a talisman to most of us. So that wherever it is proved to be, and the results of mining in the Philippines have definitely shown the mine to be rich in it, there would many of us go, were we able. Way back in the last century, we had the Californian gold rush; the "Trail of '98" to Alaska; and the commencement of the great development of the fabulously rich Rand of South Africa. In these more conservative times and with present day scientific methods of mining, the "old time" miner and would-be gold seeker is largely represented by the speculator in gold mining shares. The results obtained by the successful companies bring about the promotion of many others; some of them good, others mediocre and many worthless. But such are the chances in mining, and the chance is that there is and always will be, a big army of wealth seekers who prefer to back the low priced shares of apparently poor promotions, rather than invest in the higher market priced stock of proved undertakings. And sometimes, though perhaps rarely, their faith is rewarded. The history of the Rand, Rhodesia and Tin mining in Malaya can furnish some examples of apparently worthless mines turning up trumps, after, possibly, the installation of new machinery, or under new methods of development. As a general rule, however, it is as well as investors to back the promotions of accredited people, with reputations behind them in the mining world, for in the long run and after the boom has subsided, it is the mines sponsored by the expert mining and financial organisations which succeed; pay dividends, build up reserves and last to do this for many a year.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET LISTLESS YESTERDAY

New York, Aug. 5.

Swan, Culbertson & Fritz, Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market:—The market today was irregular, with buying late in the session.

Nervousness was apparent, in spite of the good background of business reports. This is attributed to concern regarding the Spanish revolt and the fear that it may threaten European peace.

At the opening, the market was firm, but selling soon developed in minor issues which spread to other divisions. Steel stocks were irregular in spite of good reports. Aircraft issues were active, but mixed. Union Pacific issues were firm, after curbing 25 cents per share, but later by irregularly lower. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were irregular.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: The market was easier on professional realizing and prices look likely to go lower. Pittsburgh steel other 25 cents per share, but later by irregularly lower. Production of capacity; this is the highest for the past 7 years. It is expected that production will be shortly reached 80 per cent of capacity. The National Power & Light Company European cents per share for the quarter ended June 30 as against 17 cents the previous year. The Sterling Products Corporation earned $1.35 during the second-quarter as against $1.27 last year. The Radio Corporation earned 53 cents per share for the 6 months ended June 30, compared with 42 cents per convertible preferred share as compared with 73 cents last year. The Socony-Vacuum Company earned 53 cents per share for the 6 months ended June 30, compared with 24 cents during the corresponding period of last year. The value of the stock exchange totaled $54,000,000,000 on August 1st.

Cotton: The market was without any special feature.

Wheat: Buying was more aggressive under the stimulus of the weakness of Winnipeg and the domestic mill markets. It is reported that there is a big demand for flour. The weather in Europe is not favourable for harvesting.

Corn: There have been rains in Iowa and Illinois. A forecast indicates generally showery conditions. It is rumored that important imports of Argentine corn are possible. Country offerings are larger. Then market staged a late rally, due to the strength of wheat. There is some considerable uncertainty regarding the extent of the possible benefit from the recent rainfall in the corn belt.

Rubber: The market presented a sagging tendency, due to the disappointing action of the primary markets and labour conditions in Akron.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal morning comment:—"It is estimated that supplies of copper in the United States declined during July. The copper market is benefitting from the improved technical position due brought about. The dullness of the stock market is partially due to the fact that many traders and chartists are retreating to side-lines, some expressing the opinion that the favourable business news at present, has been discounted. The Peoples Drug Company is likely to increase its dividend. Canadian interests are reported to be buying International Nickel shares. Wall Street is displaying increasing concern over the situation in Spain."

BRITISH POLICY

London, Aug. 5.

Press messages from Paris state that the French Government has instructed its Ambassador in Moscow and its Minister in Lisbon to invite those Governments to associate themselves with the principle of non-intervention in the Spanish civil war. The French Government will keep the British Government, which yesterday sent a favourable reply to the French Note on this subject, informed as to the results of its enquiries in other capitals.

"The British reply, which has been warmly welcomed in the press, is known to have emphasized the anxiety which the British Government shares with the French as to the consequences which might ensue from support of any of the parties to the Spanish conflict by outside Powers.

While the British Government would undoubtedly welcome an agreement to obviate these risks, it is likely it will have pointed out the necessity to ensure that the result of that agreement should be simultaneously accepted by all the Powers concerned. There would be no objection, however, in the British view to a declaration by the Powers most immediately interested that they would prevent the supply from their territories of arms and munitions of war to Spain, in advance of a general agreement to the same effect. The British Government itself has been acting all along in conformity with the principle of non-intervention, and therefore it would certainly be ready to join in making such a declaration if and as soon as other Governments are prepared to do so.—British Wireless.

FOUR BURGLARIES ADMITTED

PRISON SENTENCE IMPOSED

Appearing on remand before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning on four charges of burglary at shops in Lyndhurst Terrace during last month, Leung Yu, 17, unemployed, was sentenced to a total of four months' hard labour, and ordered to pay one of the complainants $5 amends, in default, seven days' hard labour.

Defendant was charged yesterday with a man named Tang Yu, who was given a sentence of eight months' hard labour on six charges. They were arrested after they had made an unsuccessful attempt to commit a burglary at a shop in Queen's Road Central.

Detective-Sergeant Riddell said defendant had been smoking opium since 14 years of age. His father was dead, and his mother had run away soon after her husband's death. Defendant had a brother who was a shop fitter, and an uncle, master of a fancy goods shop, but both wished him to be given a prison sentence.

Defendant admitted the charges yesterday.

WEEK'S TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

NO FATALITIES IN LATEST REPORT

In the Colony of Hongkong including the island, Kowloon and the New Territories during the week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, August 1, there were altogether 49 traffic accidents, as the result of which 24 persons were injured.

Of the persons injured, 11 were pedestrians who were either walking or running across the road and were struck by vehicles. Two tramcar passengers and a bus passenger were injured while alighting from moving tramcars and a moving motor bus at a crossing. One motor cycle driver and a bicycle rider were injured through falling from their vehicles whilst in motion.

Two Chinese girls, playing on the footpath, were injured by a motor bus skidding on the pavement. Three bicycle riders were injured as the result of collisions between vehicles. Of the 49 accidents, 18 were collisions between vehicles, 19 were collisions between vehicles and pedestrians, and 12 accidents were due to other causes.

VARIETY TURN AT KING'S

BRIGHT SHOW NOW ON BILL

Bright, clean and clever is the variety show now being presented by the Victoria Cabaret at the King's Theatre, in addition to the film, "Little Miss Nobody," starring Jane Vernon. Especially good are the special dance numbers by the hostesses, these including ultra modern tango and a Polish traditional dance. Miss Getty also delights with her serpentine dance, whilst the final ensemble, with musical bells, is excellent. A. Grubel does some clever juggling, tumbling and other stunts with the xylophone. Altogether, a bright little show, well worth seeing.

ONE-ARMED THIEF CAUGHT

REPEATED OFFENCES OVER LONG PERIOD

A youth, Ngai Fat with only one arm, appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, charged with stealing two baskets of vegetables from a gardener, Lau Ho.

Detective Sub-Inspector R. Cunningham said defendant was stopped with the baskets in his possession. He admitted having taken them from Matauwei, and when taken there, complainant identified the vegetables as having been stolen from his garden. Defendant had a record of 10 previous convictions, and was under police supervision until 1933.

The Inspector added that everything had been done to help defendant, but he would pay no attention. Six months' hard labour was imposed.

TWO BANISHEES GAOLED

CAME BACK SECOND TIME

Sentence of six months' hard labour was passed on each of two returned banishees when they admitted coming back before their 10-year terms had expired, before Mr. J. H. Hingworth at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Wong Ming, 32, deported on April 25, 1931, explained that he had merely been passing through the Colony. He admitted a previous conviction for the same offence. Sub-Inspector E. Rogers prosecuted.

Chung Sam, 52, admitted a six months' term of imprisonment for coming back from a previous banishment, and pleaded that he had returned to look for a friend to borrow money from him. His latest deportation order had been imposed on July 9 of this year. Det-Sgt. Davies prosecuted.

ANOTHER CASE

Leung Shing, 35, unemployed, was committed to stand his trial at the Criminal Sessions by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on a charge of having returned from banishment before the expiration of his period of ten years received on October 23, 1933.

Detective-Sergeant T. G. Mackay, prosecuting, produced defendant's record, which showed twelve previous convictions, and also his fingerprints.

Evidence was given by Kwong Lee, a Chinese detective, who stated that defendant was handed over to him by a Japanese at No. 1 Hui Fung Lane about 3.30 a.m. on July 25, where he had been arrested when trying to commit a larceny.

Other formal evidence was given by police interpreters, after which defendant was committed.

OFFERED TO SELL REVOLVER

COOLIE GETS STIFF SENTENCE

Requesting the Magistrate, Mr. E. Hingworth to take a serious view of the case, Det-Sgt. D. G. MacPherson, prosecuting, "Tung Kiu, 21-year-old earth-carrying coolie, on a charge of possession of a revolver and ammunition at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, stated that defendant had tried to sell the weapon which might have been acquired by a robber.

Outlining the facts, Sergeant MacPherson said defendant was arrested on information at the Kung Lung Tea House, 460 Prince Edward Road, a little after 11 o'clock on the morning of July 26. The revolver, loaded in four chambers, was found wrapped in a rock and cloth in Tung's girdle.

Imposing a fine of $250, or eight months' imprisonment, the Magistrate remarked: "You people who walk around with guns in this Colony represent a very undesirable element which we want to get rid of."

GOLD-MINE SHARE
PROPAGANDA

Attempts are, we observe, being made, by specious arguments which bear no direct relationship to the issues involved, to keep alive the interest of speculators in the locally-created market for Philippines gold-mining stocks.
Suggestions are being thrown out that although the prices of some of these stocks may appear high at the moment, there is a great future for gold as a commodity, with the consequential possibility of appreciation in share values as and when certain properties are further developed. The conjuring up of these glowing prospects is part and parcel of the game to attract foolish people, and is not based on the known outlook of the companies whose stocks figure in the speculative list. In other words, the public is being asked to remain in, or enter, the market on a possibility which may or may not be borne out by events. It is not to be denied that big money has been made by speculators who entered the market in the early days of the boom; this fact is without question being used as bait with a view to keeping alive a movement which is wholly alien to Hongkong and which is having detrimental effects on legitimate business in local stocks and shares.
Despite the warnings which have been issued, some members of the local Exchanges still continue to encourage this speculative activity. It is, indeed, little short of astounding that facilities are offered by the Exchanges for this gambling in bits of paper supposedly representing actual holdings in Philippines companies, with no likelihood of scrip changing hands.
Such procedure cannot be defended, and we are surprised that reputable members of these organisations do not make some effort to investigate and, if necessary, deal with methods suggested in a recent series of questions which have never yet been answered. Those who have an interest in keeping the speculative movement alive may hope to impress the public by pointing to possibilities, but the prudent investor will pay more heed to men who are qualified by actual mining experience and knowledge to express their views than they will to assurances by brokers who are out for business.

Doctor

Are you sociable? ... You will enjoy a cruise.

FEW of us are able to do what we like in this world. We have to adjust ourselves to many things—lack of money, social requirements, family disputes and responsibilities.

It is all the more necessary for the fortnight or more we call "our holidays" during summer, when we go to Japan or Tsingtao, that we strive to combine the thrill of novelty with the satisfaction of physical and mental enjoyment.

The best holiday! You must think hard before you decide. So much depends on a choice which fits with your type and temperament.

Are you very sociable? Do you like human beings in the mass?

Rest Your Mind

If you do—then Japan and Shanghai are more stimulating to you than the scenery of Formosa or French Indo-China.

The only danger is that you may come home more tired than you were when you went away because you have kept up the tension that is the everyday pattern of your life. That, however, can be guarded against, and a holiday that provides new contacts, opportunities for making more friends, has many advantages.

But you must rest in your mind, even when your environment is strenuous.

Sun-bathing, swimming, games and dancing are only the external aspects of a holiday. The psychological factor is what most people overlook.

Your holiday should satisfy unconscious wishes, and cravings and emotions. In everyone, there is the primitive savage and the child. Let your holiday, if you work hard, be a play time.

The Children

I ASKED three men and three women what the ideal holiday would be for them.

One man said, "Sailing in a small boat among the Southern Pacific Islands." Another man answered in one word, "Golf."
A woman said "Lapland; one of the most delightful countries in Europe."

The other two women and the remaining man declared that they liked the same holiday

Two warnings were recently issued from such reputable quarters—one by the Vice-President of one of the biggest Philippines mining properties, and another by an engineer who is conversant with the position of numerous concerns. These warnings serve to illustrate the point that the present spate of speculation is precisely the kind of thing that the Philippines mining people deplore, because they fear, from a knowledge of what has occurred in other days, that the industry as a whole may thereby acquire a bad reputation. People who are willing to gamble in gold-mining shares without definite and reliable information of the prospects of the companies involved are merely asking for trouble. And brokers who encourage such speculation locally are doing a distinct diservice to the Colony.

every year—Japan with their children.

Children are an important consideration in choosing a holiday. A trip to some peaceful centre—such as Tsingtao or even Cheung Chau—gives parents a good chance to know the minds of their children.

"Nobody has time to speak to me in this house," said a bored little boy to me the other day.
Soon he will reach an age when he will no longer want to talk to his parents.

"Take him with you to visit the little beaten trails of Formosa or the mountains behind Manila," I suggested to his father, because the boy has,
as it happens, an interest in the country.

"Anyway," I said, "take him along with you and let him talk and talk, and he won't need psycho-therapeutic treatment when he is twenty."

There is an enormous value in good fatherhood, by which I mean an intimate friendly relationship between a man and his children. Boys and girls should be with their father on holiday—spend as much time with him as with their mother.

What about the best holiday for bachelors and spinsters?

"If I could choose," said one girl to me, "I would have a holiday in an aeroplane. In a few hours I could fly to perfect climates and see places I've always wanted to see."

Actually, a flying holiday for many people would be better medicine than any "rest cure."

We know to-day that nervous breakdown is a misnomer for emotional breakdown, failure to solve one's conflicts. Flying brings some realisation of the vastness of the world, and it may stimulate intellectual curiosity, which is the best anodyne for the pain of living in self-absorption.

Strive always for change in choosing a holiday.

If you are tired of life, get a holiday, at once, if you can.

Spend the first day quietly at home, and towards the evening take a physical and mental inventory of yourself.

Are you too fat? Have you flabby muscles? Do you sleep badly and suffer from indigestion?

The mental inventory will be more difficult. Nobody likes to admit he is selfish, indolent, hostile to other people and to life.

The best change for such people is a holiday from the old self, while building up a new and happier personality.

A reconditioning of ourselves, mentally and physically—we all get a chance of doing this on holiday, when we can acquire a better perspective and a new sense of values.

Best Medicine

A "GOOD holiday" need not be a question of money.

If you are a young man, you can easily find a friend who owns a small yacht. Presume on your friendship and beg, borrow or steal this way to good health if you can't take a longer sea trip.

If you are a girl, there are inexpensive trips to many places in the East, or, what is cheaper still, walking tours through our lovely New Territories and the Island.

I know of one woman who simply stayed at home for a holiday. All she did was to change the routine of her house and go off every morning to explore the Colony.

The Best Holiday! It depends neither on money nor opportunity to go wherever you like. It is the spirit and humour and brains you put into these days of leisure which count.

Be sure you choose the type of holiday you are going to enjoy —that is the all-important thing —because joy is the best medicine in the world.

Boys Were Boys Then

READING the other day that few schoolboys of the present generation play truant, or indulge in that dangerous pastime, "tormenting the teacher," I was reminded of a certain unruly class that flourished little more than a dozen years ago.

I have often felt that putting ladies in charge of boys between fourteen and sixteen was simply asking for trouble. Male teachers had a difficult enough time, but with merciless youths who, at that time, regarded chivalry as "soft," the two lady teachers who had, from time to time, to suffer our carry-on must have felt that theirs was pretty much of a dog's life.

There was one trial of patience—a comparatively mild one, be it said—to which one of the ladies had to submit now and then.

In the brief interval between "periods," all the class crawled beneath the desks. When she marched in, therefore, the room appeared empty. For a minute or two she would work at her register, out then, becoming impatient, out us. Needless to say, by the time she returned, her class was sitting quietly in their places. To her great credit it must be said that never once did she inquire where we had been. No doubt she fumed inwardly, but she invariably proceeded immediately with the lesson as if nothing had happened.

It often happened too that a teacher, having left the room for a moment, returned to find the place in utter darkness and filled with weird, ghostly noises. Who closed the shutters, and who was responsible for the wailing and groaning, were secrets that no teacher ever discovered. There was at least honour among "rowdies."

As for truancy, whenever there was a mid-week game at the neighbouring football park, only those who had no money went to school. Sometimes, when most of us were "flush," there would be fewer than a dozen scholars interested in algebra or literature that afternoon.

Unfortunately for us, one teacher hit upon an apt punishment. If he found himself a victim of soccer enthusiasm, the names of absentees were noted, and next day each received one "bliff" for every goal scored.
Consequently, while we wankers scored too, often and there was, of course, little truancy when the match looked a "cukewalk" for the home side.

On one occasion, however, a dozen of us, confident that there would be little scoring, took the afternoon off, and were horrified to see the visitors win by five goals to four.

It must, literally, have hurt that teacher as much as it hurt us, but he stuck to his principle and spent most of his "period" next day raising and lowering the strap one hundred and eight times!

London, Aug. 5. PHANTOM ISLAND

A Soviet expedition is setting out this summer to locate mysterious Sanikov Island, nicknamed by explorers "the Phantom of the Arctic."

Sanikov Island was sighted by a merchant named Sanikov travelling from Siberia to European Russia through the Arctic Ocean in the last year of the 18th century.

Since that time various explorers have believed that they had sighted Sanikov Island, but none ever succeeded in landing on it.

BRITISH CONDOLENCES

London, Aug. 5. The Secretary for Air and the Air Council have sent messages of condolence on the death of M. Louis Berlioz, distinguished French pioneer of aviation, to the French Government and to the bereaved family.—British Wireless.

TWO REASONS: SPORT—AND WALKING

SIZE 5 IS NOW THE MOST POPULAR SHOE

MODERN Hongkong girls, like their Chinese sisters who have abundant feet, have bigger, broader, and heavier feet than their mothers or grandmothers.

But these bigger feet are fitter, healthier, more flexible, and more beautiful. The tiny foot is out of fashion, and only a few women limp painfully in shoes 1½ sizes too small for them.

X-RAYED

A well known local chiropodist said: "The active lives most women lead nowadays is the reason for their larger feet. They refuse to wear uncomfortable and will not wear their feet, which are consequently larger, but more shapely."

A shoe retailer said: "Sport and more walking are the two chief reasons. Women are more sensible regarding their own feet and their children's feet. 'With the X-rays machines now in many shoe-shops they see their toes cramped, and realise the folly of buying small and tight shoes for looks alone."

"The most popular size is 5½—6, and when a woman says a 5½ shoe is a 5, and not a 6, it is comparatively uncommon now to find a woman with a 3 or even a 2½ size foot."

THE PERFECT FOOT

HERE is the perfect foot, as described by Dr. Oskar Stracker, of Vienna University: "It should be three as long as its greatest breadth, and one-seventh of the person's height in its length."

Miss Pamela Stack, of the women's League of Health and Beauty, said: "Women's feet are certainly larger, but they are more shapely, healthy and beautiful."

"Just as a woman has allowed her waist to expand, so she has allowed her feet to expand, and thereby gained a figure more natural, healthy and beautiful, so have her feet expanded through the sensible wear of sandals and comfortable shoes, and often, throughout the summer, bare feet."

Mr. Ernest Bondell, secretary of the Northampton Town Foot Manufacturers' Association in England has taken a census to act as a guide for production purposes. Here are the findings:

45 per cent. women take sizes 4 and 5.
24 per cent. size 5½.
10 per cent. size 3 and under.
The rest take 6, 6½, and even larger.

CLAIM AGAINST HELEN HAYES

Chicago, July 31.

A sensational end to the $20,000 action against Helen Hayes, the film star, was reached in the Chicago courts to-day, the judge dismissing the claim by Miss Carol Frink, a dramatic critic, at the request of her own counsel.

Miss Frink had alleged that Miss Hayes alienated the affections of her former husband, Mr. Charles MacArthur, playwright of "The Front Page" fame, who is now the husband of Miss Hayes.

Counsel explained that Miss Frink merely wanted "her day in court" to present her side of the case. "Miss Frink was never a gold-digger," he added. "At no time was this an extortion suit."

TRIED TO BE CAYER

Miss Adele Orniston, a journalist, who interviewed Miss Hayes in 1932, giving evidence earlier to-day, said she recalled Miss Hayes telling her how she had said to Mr. MacArthur: "You haven't even asked to kiss me." Counsel: "Did Miss Hayes tell you something to this effect: 'I used to strain, trying to be gay and more brilliant than she?'"

Miss Orniston: "Yes, that's right."

Miss Frink collapsed in the witness-box after describing her courtship and married life.

Two days before the hearing of her divorce suit, she said, Mr. MacArthur went to her Chicago hotel room and "offered an olive branch."

Miss Frink also described the manner of Mr. MacArthur's wooing. "All of a sudden," she said, "Charles grabbed me, stepped on my feet, kissed me on the nose and told me he loved me."

Yet, according to Miss Orniston's evidence, Helen Hayes, petite star of many films, had to ask for her first kiss from the same man.—United Press.

BRITAIN AND EGYPT AGREE ON DEFENCE

Cairo, July 24.

THE Anglo-Egyptian delegations who are negotiating a new treaty, will hold a plenary meeting tomorrow to draft an agreement on the military question.—Exchange.

The Treaty negotiations have been proceeding at high pressure and in an atmosphere of great optimism (says Reuter).

It is thought probable that an Egyptian delegation will leave for London to draw up a new treaty before the end of the summer.

The military question is the one which, it has generally been considered, was likely to raise the greatest difficulties.

FOREIGNERS' RIGHTS

Since it is now practically settled, the delegations will be able to move on to the questions of the Sudan and the rights of foreigners and minorities.

The settlement of the military question provides for the maintenance of the British garrison in Egypt until Egypt's own military forces are strong enough to ensure the defence of the country and the Suez Canal.

The main British garrison, however, will be moved from Cairo into the desert near Ismailia, and as the Egyptian Army grows stronger the British forces will be progressively reduced.

British air forces in Egypt will be strengthened, and a naval force will probably be stationed at Alexandria.

NEW RAILWAY DEVICE

Englishman Sets New Mark In 50 Kilometre Walk

TRIPLE FOR THE INCOMPARABLE OWENS

FILIPINO IS INJURED

Berlin, August 5. Sensation piled on sensation here to-day as Olympic records were swept by the board in a magnificent display of athletic prowess by the world's finest performers. Unfortunately among the sensations was a little tragedy. Miguel White, splendid Filipino trackster, who had previously secured a place in the final of the 200 metres hurdles, tripped over the second obstacle in the 110 metres hurdles to-day and so severely injured himself that his coach later declared it was unlikely White would run again during the Olympics.

Coach Serafin told United Press that White had strained a muscle in the back of the upper part of his leg. White was willing to attempt to run, but it is not likely his coach will permit it, as he wishes to protect White's future career, which might be irretrievably ruined. White felt a slight twinge yesterday but thought little of it until he fell in the hurdles.

OWENS THE MAGNIFICENT

Jesse Owens, observed Stewart Cameron in the United Press special correspondent at Berlin, took his third Olympic title to-day, and is the first athlete since Paavo Nurmi to secure a triple. Owens won the 100 metre and broad jump, then completed the sweep by establishing a new Olympic record for the 200 metres. To-day's record is one-tenth below Roland Locke's world top-mark and four-tenths below Owens' own 1935 record which awaits acceptance. Another record to go by the board to-day was in the Discus Throw. Kenneth Carpenter of the United States set a new mark in the finals, while Trechonda Vail of Italy broke the Olympic record time in the semi-final of the women's 80 metres hurdles. Describing Jesse Owens' effort in returning 20.7 seconds for the 200 metres, Reuter says it is one-tenth second outside of the world's record. Owens made an electrifying start and was well clear after the first 50 metres.

CROWD SILENT IN WONDER

A strange silence settled over the vast stadium as he rounded the final bend and pounded down the straight to win from the American, Mack Robinson, who made a terrific effort but was unable to catch the Negro flash. Nevertheless for the second time in the event, Robinson returned a time of 21.1 seconds.

50 Kilometre Walk

Berlin, Aug. 5. China's track and field representatives at the World Olympics continue to give rather disappointing displays. In the 50 kilometre walk to-day, 7-81 was placed 22 in the time of 5 hrs. 10 mins. 2 4/10 secs. Chong finished 24th in 5:21 1/10, and Chang came in 25th in 5:26:54 2/10. In the 50 kilometre walk to-day, came in 25th in 5:26:54 2/10. Competing in the 1,500 metres, Chia was last throughout the race, and finished 200 yards behind the heat winner, Beccali of Italy in 3 mins. 55 6/10 seconds. Whitlock of Great Britain scored a triumph in the 50 kilometres walk, winning the event in the Olympic record time of 4 hrs. 30 mins. 41 seconds. Schwab of Switzerland finished second in 4:32:29 2/10 and Hubenko of Latvia was third in 4:32:42 2/10. All of the first six finishers beat Thomas W. Green's 1932 Olympic record of 4:50:10. Green is an Englishman, so that Whitlock's walk to-day enabled Britain to retain a title.—Reuter.

POLE VAULT

Berlin, August 5. In the pole vault event Fu qualified by jumping the necessary 12 ft. 6 ins. Wang did not compete in throwing the discus. Leung and Kuo did not qualify, having failed to clear the necessary 14 ft. 4 ins. Chen scratched.—Reuter.

110 METRES HURDLES

Berlin, August 5. In the 110 metres hurdles race, first round, Ling, who was drawn in the first heat, was level with the leader over the first two hurdles, but gradually dropped back and finished last. The heat was won by Saley, (America), in 15.0 secs. Wong, who was in the inside lane in his heat, lost ground over the first hurdle and never regained it, being last in the heat. The winner was Pollard, (America) in 14.7 secs.—Reuter.

DISCUS THROW RECORD

Berlin, August 5. In the final of the discus throw, Carpenter, (America) was the winner with a throw of 50.48 metres, an Olympic record.—Reuter.

Dixie Dean Comforts Dying Boy

London, July 10. Centre forward Dixie Dean, Everton and international star, brought joy to fifteen-year-old centre forward Patrick Brady by visiting him in hospital at Lonsdale to-night. Patrick is dying, but his greatest wish came true as Dixie arrived to see just him—not the two hundred other children in the hospital. The story goes back fifteen months. Patrick, playing in a school league championship, scored the winning goal which won him a medal. But he received a kick in the back during that game. A few weeks afterwards he was taken to the hospital with spine trouble from which he cannot recover. To-night he told Dixie all about his football, showed him his medal. And Dixie showed Patrick his medals, swapped pictures of footballers with him. A happier little centre forward slept in his hospital bed to-night.

Action study of D. O. Finlay (nearest camera) who yesterday qualified in his heat of the 110 metres hurdles event at the World Olympic Games. He returned the excellent time of 14.7 seconds.

HOW ENGLAND BEAT AUSTRALIA IN RUGBY TEST

(By CLAUDE COLBERT)

Sydney Sun

London, July 4. Now for the final of the Rugby League rubber! England defeated Australia by 12 points to 7 in the second Test match on the Brisbane Cricket Ground this afternoon; so now each country has won a Test.

England won the ball frequently from the scrums, and attacked persistently. At half-time, the score was five to nil. There were stirring occasions when Edwards scored his two tries, and Crippen crossed after running from his own 25. But rain not only affected the playing field, but also the attendance. Early matches were to have started at 9 a.m., but it was decided that they should be cancelled, with the scrum being played between Cunningham and Ipswich immediately preceding the Test. All seating accommodation was occupied, early, including that reserved for the Press. Space was made for the newspaper men by the police, but everything was uncomfortably crowded. The gate had been insured for £700 against rain before 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., but there was no rain. There is a break in the London skies, but the weather was so threatening that it was decided to prevent many people from attending. For nearly an hour before the Test steady rain fell. A strong wind was blowing straight down the ground, and the playing field was like an ice skating rink. Fortunately the rain was not too heavy, and the narrow area occupied by the cricket ground was not too wet. Cunningham and Ipswich provided an excellent match in the conditions, Cunningham winning by 8 to 6. The attendance was estimated at 27,000.

ENGLISH CHARGE

England had first use of the wind and Brown started the game, the ball going into touch. The ball was then passed to the Englishmen, with the ball at their feet, at once charged to the Australian goal, where Thicknesse, Norman and Jenkins were having all the better of the game. Jenkins kicked, and then a penalty went to England. From outside the 25 Hodgson just missed the goal, but England led 5 to nil. Brown got touch near the English 25 from a penalty. Then from a scrum, Watkins kicked across to Crippen, who was not in his stride when Edwards dived and touched him on the ankle, bringing him down. Brown then went to the attack, but Brown missed the ball down to Brown, who cleared his line, and then Belshaw kicked the ball down. Watkins and Belshaw clearly put England on the attack, but Hyde, Pearce and Price missed the goal, but England led 5 to nil. England was having all the better of the game now, penalties alone saving Australia from a bad time. One kick by Brown went into the English 25, but again setting the ball, Watkins passed to Brown, who was stopped in the corner by Crippen. England attacked badly, but Brown saved. Then Belshaw kicked, but Hyde ran the ball out and passed to Thicknesse, who was downed near his line.

THE FIRST TRY

England was continuing to get the ball and Watkins passed to Jenkins, who picked up and kicked for the corner. Edwards went fast and holding the ball on the bounce, scored in the corner. It was a clever try, and when Hodgson missed the goal, England led 5 to nil. Australia went down to the English 25, following a penalty, but could not get the ball from the scrum. Brown missed a high kick, and Price was offside on his own side of halfway. Hodgson failed to goal. RISMAN'S GOAL

Hodgson had another go at goal from a penalty, but the ball again was wide of the goal. Edwards went fast and holding the ball on the bounce, scored in the corner. THIRD SHOULDER DISLOCATION

Frank Moss, the Arsenal and English international goalkeeper, is the unluckiest footballer. He dislocated a shoulder for the third time last month while taking part in exercises at Carnegie Physical Training College, Leeds, where, with sixty-four managers, players and trainers, he was taking the F.A. "refresher" course. Moss was taken to Leeds General Infirmary, where the shoulder was reset, and within an hour he returned to the college with his arm in a sling and attended a lecture. It was during the match with Everton in March 1935, that Moss met with his first serious shoulder injury. He had an operation in a Newcastle nursing home, and turned out for Arsenal after a long rest. He broke down again during the game with Blackburn Rovers last February and has not played since.

K.I.T.C. TO BE TESTED

By Kowloon Tong

TO-DAY'S LEAGUE TENNIS

Kowloon Tong, at one time among the most formidable of the challengers for the "C" Division tennis league championship, will to-day endeavour to lower the colours of the hitherto invincible Kowloon Indian Tennis Club.

The match is being played at Kowloon Tong and more than passing interest will be centred in the meeting between the unfeathered Hussain brothers, and the "Tong's" equally clever Chan brothers combination.

It cannot be conceded that Kowloon Tong have quite such a well-balanced team as the Indians, but they have held their own very well to date. If the Indians are to preserve their 100 per cent. record they will have to be on top form. The slightest falling-away may easily cost them two points when opposed to such a useful side as Kowloon Tong.

Club de Recreio should win with the greatest of ease at K.C.C., and none of the other matches have any bearing on the championship.

BATTED 3 DAYS FOR 6 RUNS

London, July 10.

G. O. Allen (Middlesex captain) batted on all three days of the Middlesex match with Notts at Trent Bridge, Nottingham, for an innings of 6 not out. Like this:— Saturday: not out 0; Monday: not out 3; Yesterday: increased to not out 6. He went in just before the close on Saturday; on Monday there was only eighteen minutes' play because of rain; and yesterday, in the ten minutes cricket possible before lunch, the Middlesex innings was completed.

A patience test? Well, Allen is expected to go to Australia next winter as England's captain. And test matches there are marathons—played to a finish.

CHINESE CHESS PRODIGY

MAK SHIU-MAN

CHINESE BOY CHESS PRODIGY

MAKES DARING COUPS

The local Open Chinese Chess (chang ki) Championship, promoted by the South China Athletic Association, has been won by a boy prodigy of fourteen, Master Mak Shiu-man. The tournament, which was concluded on Thursday last, proved very popular. Large numbers of chess enthusiasts thronged the auditorium of the Confucian Association every evening. The results, accompanied by detailed records and critical remarks by competent chess experts, were published day after day in all leading vernacular papers, and were eagerly read and discussed by all classes of people.

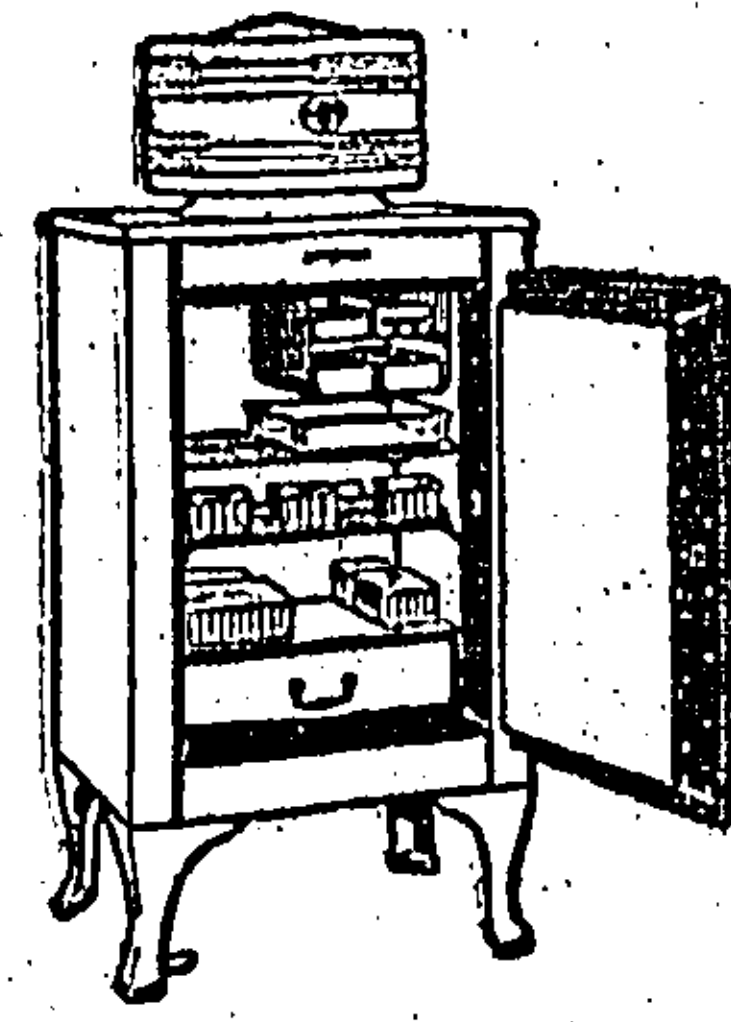

Besides Mak Shiu-man, the contestants included such luminaries as Kong Ku-woon, Ng Sui-nang, Chan Tak-pui, Tang Tsi-yu (former champion of Hongkong), Ho Sing-mo and many others. Kong Ku-woon who has to his credit a smart victory over the great master Chow Tak-yu, generally regarded as China's foremost chang ki exponent, was beaten in second place by a single point, while Ho Sing-mo, the youngest player in the tournament, being only twelve, showed great promise, and ironically enough, he gained the distinction of being the only player to win a game from the champion.

Mak Shiu-man, the champion, who had 15 wins, nine draws, and one defeat, possesses all the qualities that go to make him one day a great master. His rare patience, calmness, and concentration of mind are perhaps his greatest assets. He refuses to be hurried in the most obvious moves, or upset by grave threats of defeat. It is interesting to watch him calmly extricating himself from a seemingly hopeless position, often completely turning the tables and inflicting a crushing defeat on his opponent by a master stroke.

HIS BEST GAME

Perhaps the best remembered game throughout the tournament was the one in which he engaged the clever veteran Ng Sui-sang, ex-devant champion of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., in a terrific battle of wits. The large gathering of spectators were greatly impressed by the daring strategy of the young master, who, in the course of the game, deliberately sacrificed both his chariots, the most powerful pieces in chang ki, to effect a most spectacular checkmate. The players were given a great ovation when they rose.

CRAIGENGOWER FOUR WINS AFTER KEEN GAME

In spite of a heavy green, an exciting match was witnessed at the Police Recreation Club yesterday afternoon in the quarter-finals of the Lawn Bowls rinks championship, when a Craigen-gower rink skipped by R. F. de Luz defeated W. Macfarlane's Kowloon Bowling Green Club rink by 20 shots to 17. This is the second Craigen-gower rink to enter the semi-final round, the other being U. M. Omar's four.

The Craigen-gower rink yesterday comprised of J. S. Landolt, A. S. Gomes, W. V. Field and Luz, and the Kowloon Bowling Green Club rink of J. Watson, R. Hall, J. Fraser and Macfarlane.

It was anybody's game until the end. The winners took the lead on the first eight heads, when they scored nine shots to their opponents' eight, but the scores were levelled at nine-all on the next head. At this stage, the losers made a spurt and took the lead with a score of 13-10 on the 13th head, but a four by Luz's rink on the 14th head gave them the lead by one shot.

The remaining heads were then keenly contested, and some fine bowling was seen. The scores were again levelled at 14-all on the 15th head, after which the winners gradually forged ahead. The 16th head was the best in the match, all the wickets clustering round the 'jack' with two Craigen-gower wickets touching to give two shots to the winners.

On the 20th head, the winners were only three shots ahead, and the losers lay three shots, but Luz with his last shot carried the 'jack' from a difficult position to give his side two shots, and a lead of five. The losers made a gallant attempt to score five on the last head, but only got two.

It was 'altogether a fine game. It would be difficult to select any individual player for special comment, as all of them played well at different stages of the match. Luz did not find the heavy green to his liking, but towards the close, sent down some fine woods, and his effort on the 20th head undoubtedly won his side the match. Had his opponents been three on this head, they might have won. The winners scored on eleven heads, and the losers on ten.

The match was originally arranged to have been played on the Civil Service green, but as that was closed owing to its being too wet, the match was played on the Police green.

POOR QUALITY BOWLS

Bowling of an extraordinarily poor standard was seen at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club yesterday when H. A. Alves's rink, comprising L. F. Xavier, L. J. Silva and F. V. Y. Ribeiro, defeated L. A. Gutierrez's four (F. A. Xavier, J. M. M. Alves and E. M. P. Remedios) by 24 shots to 11 in the Open Rink championship.

All the players seemed to be affected by the heavy conditions of the green, and the match was a 'jack' while the substantial lead gained by the winners in the early part of the game, robbed much of its interest.

The winners took the lead in the first two heads in the course of which they scored five shots. Gutierrez and his colleagues then not only drew level but actually took the lead by scoring on the next four heads. The following head, however, saw the winners regain their lead which they maintained throughout. The winners scored on twelve heads as against their opponents' nine.

MATCH POSTPONED

Owing to the wet state of the Kowloon C.C. green, the semi-final match in the Pairs Championship between J. E. Noronha and F. X. M. da Silva, of the Club de Recreio, and A. Bright and J. E. Henson, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, was not played yesterday.

INSTRUCTIONAL POOL

The Holborn Borough Council, who intend to replace the present obsolete public baths at Broad-street with "the finest swimming pool in London," are now to advertise a competition, open to all architects, for plans for the new baths, reports the Evening Standard, and.

It is hoped that the baths will be built within two years.

"Our aim," the Holborn Town Clerk said "is to provide London with a swimming bath which will attract the very finest of the international swimming and diving events."

MEASURED IN METRES

"For that reason, the proposed size of the bath has been worked out in metres. It will have to be 150 metres long and some 50 metres wide.

"To comply with the international diving competition rules, it will be 15ft. deep at one end.

"The committee in charge of the matter have taken enormous trouble to see that the bath shall be as up to date as possible.

"We have visited most of the modern swimming baths in the country, and have obtained many photographs of those on the Continent. Every modern improvement in the bath itself and in the cubicles will be incorporated.

LARGE RESTAURANT

Architects who submit plans will have to conform to certain stipulated conditions. They will have to include a large restaurant in the building, and probably it will be placed around the bath, so that spectators at the tables in the restaurant will have a clear view of the bath itself.

As in the present baths at Broad-street, there will be two pools, the smaller one an instructional pool.

In order to make room for the new bath, the present one will be pulled down, and so will some adjoining shops. The new building will also extend over the adjoining site of the old Christ Church, which is now used as a car park.

Owing to their central position, the present baths at Broad-street are very much used. The total attendance now are about 250,000 a year. Many famous swimming clubs use the baths, including those of several Government departments, the Post Office, the Bank of England and several of the big insurance companies.

The smaller of the two baths in the present building is one of the oldest in London, and is believed to have been built between 80 and 90 years ago.

Sale Of Blenheim Causes Dispute

Blenheim, the winner of the 1930 Derby, has been sold by his owner, the Aga Khan, to an American syndicate for a figure which Reuter puts at between £45,000 and £50,000. The head of the syndicate is Mr. du Pont de Nemours, an industrial magnate.

Australian Athletes In Form

AT WHITE CITY

London, June 29.

The Australians started off well in the British athletic championships at the White City to-day. Metcalfe and Dickinson gained first and second places respectively in the hop, step and jump, the only event completed to-day.

Their figures can safely be reckoned as worth at least another foot on a firm cinder track as the grass take-off was muddy and badly cut up. Nevertheless, today's performances slightly exceed what they have been achieving in practice on Berlin's perfect cinders.

Both consider that their figures, in the miserable conditions, exceed expectations at the present stage of their training, seeing that they arrived in London only 24 hours before the meeting began.

In other field events, Metcalfe, Dickinson, and Woodhouse all qualified for the finals, without undue exertion.

A better indication of their Olympic prospects will be obtainable to-morrow. Meanwhile, Metcalfe's victory is an assurance that he should be well in the running for the Olympic title.

RUNNER'S PERFORMANCES

Making allowances for their incomplete training, the fact that they were not competing with great hopes of lifting titles, the performances of the runners were less encouraging.

Watson drew an inside position, and, hurdling beautifully, seemed likely to win his heat until the second last hurdle, after which he dropped back so badly that he narrowly escaped elimination.

Watson's heat, however, was the fastest of the three.

Backhouse drew an outside position and ran the first mile mostly in second position, but whipped in the field for the whole of the last lap, and finished 60 yards last.

Backhouse did not compete in the half-mile.

LOVELOCK IMPRESSES

Lovelock waited till the last minute before deciding to run in the mile instead of the three miles.

Obstruction by Jenkins got Australia out of a corner. Australia could not get the ball at all. Then England scored. Jenkins crossed-kicked, and Crispin, in trying to get the ball, tripped. Then England scored. Jenkins scored his second try in a similar spot to the first. Hisman kicked a grand goal and England led 10 to 5.

BROWN KICKS GOAL

Australia came well. Thickknee passing to Norman, to Brown, who kicked. Jenkins saved by going over the dead ball line. Then they sent the ball to Crispin, who was put into touch a yard from the corner.

Australia maintained the attack until a penalty enabled England to reach Australia's 25. There was an exchange of monotonous kicking between several men. Then England attacked once more.

The ball went dead, and Australia reached the English half, and Brown kicked into touch on the full.

From there Brown had his first shot at goal. It was from close to half-way, but the ball fell short.

The Aga Khan has sold Blenheim because he has had the horse for six years and he is satisfied with the amount of progeny which he has acquired, among them being Mahmoud, the winner of this year's Derby. For the next three years the Aga Khan has offspring of Blenheim, the present yearlings and foals and the foals due this year.

Blenheim is now at the Aga Khan's stud in France, standing at a fee of £500. The sale of Blenheim has, however, produced a protest from Mr. Gerald Deane, the racing manager of Lord Astor's stud. Mr. Deane has written to the Morning Post enforcing his protest. In the course of his letter he states:

This morning I read in several papers a definite announcement that the horse had been sold, and I am also informed that the Aga Khan is negotiating for the sale of another of his stallions, which on May 20 was advertised in the "Racing Calendar" as full for 1937. Blenheim, in the "Racing Calendar" of May 29, is advertised as full for 1937, and a few nominations available for approved mares for season 1938 at 500 sovs.

I am fully aware that the Aga Khan, who is a very successful breeder, has printed on them the words: "And subject to the mares being approved, and the horse remaining in possession of his present owner," but when Solario was sold, and bought by an English syndicate, he was sold subject to the mares being approved, and the following season and fulfilling the nominations which had already been booked to him.

My point is this. If the Aga Khan advertises his stallions to cover for future years, and invites breeders to book to them, are these breeders suddenly to be informed that the stallion has been sold? It is not easy to book nominations to Derby winners, and if these nominations are suddenly cancelled owing to the sale of the stallion, other Derby winners may be already booked full for 1937 and, possibly, for 1938. Therefore the breeder who has nominations booked to Blenheim for future years has only one alternative—to take nominations to the best stallion available, all the classic stallions being probably already full.

A client of mine has two nominations booked to Blenheim for 1937 and two for 1938, and a nomination was sent for him to sign for one nomination to Blenheim for season 1939 at a fee of 500 guineas as recently as July 2, when the negotiations for the sale of Blenheim were actually taking place.

If the Aga Khan is going to proceed in future with this mode of advertisement for his stallions he should at least advertise in the "Racing Calendar" that the nominations are subject to the stallion remaining in his possession.

It would be interesting to hear the views of other breeders who have nominations booked to Blenheim, and also breeders who have nominations booked to his other stallions.

Then another penalty close in came to Australia, and Brown, landing this one, England led by 10 to 7.

Thickknee, Pearce, and Stehr handled nicely. Stehr was offside, and Australia attacked only to be penalised. England got down to the Australian 25, but was in turn penalised.

England returned, and Armit nearly scored when he knocked down a pass from Clippin. He was offside with a scrum down, close to the goal, and Holman, landing the goal, England led by 12 to 7.

Fritz put Australia on the attack with a stab kick, but the forwards could not get the ball. Once when they did they passed behind to Brown, and he was nearly through.

Then Benton made a run, but Clippin missed his pass. Brown tried for goal, but the ball went dead.

Next Billy made a dash to enter the English half, and then Benton and Crispin and they combined finely in a long dash which took play to the English 25.

Thickknee, Norman, and Crispin, working the blind, were very busy in, but Australia was forced back, and the game ended with through running into touch near his line. England won 12 to 7, and this each side has won a Test. England won 47 scrums to 24.

Full Time Scores:
England 12.
Australia 7.

WHAT I SAW IN RUSSIA—3

I WENT to the Palace of Labour in Moscow to see some Trade Union friends. It was still raining heavily. The building seemed unchanged since I was there in 1925. There was a uniformed man on the door and a small antiquated lift which seemed doubtful whether it could carry more than two people. This big building with its long corridors was formerly a "Home for Orphans."

What became of the orphans when the Unions came here I do not know. The Secretary of the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions had a large outer office with two secretaries working there, and an inner room protected against eavesdropping by a double door built into a sort of partition.

Naturally, I cannot go into any details of a conversation of such a private character, but I shall give some general references.

One of the officials set out to tell me about the Trade Unions. He said the rules and authority of the Trade Unions had changed with the development of the Soviet power.

Because of the growth of the Trade Union membership, they had become too highly centralised. They divided the twenty-three original Unions which existed when I was here in 1925, and which then had a membership of 61 millions, into forty-seven Unions. These were still too large, and after a time they arranged for 164 Unions. Since that time nine further Unions had been added to make a total of 163.

There were still 14 to 16 per cent. of the workers who were not in the Trade Unions, and they felt that smaller Unions could most effectively cater for these men.

The Unions still retained their basis of one Union for a given industry, but they had gone in for more specialisation. For example, in the machine-building industry they had now factories specialising on the making of lathes. Consequently, instead of having the members all in one heavy metal workers' Union, they now have a special Union for lathe-makers.

They had already found that this change in formation was giving good results and more attention was being paid to the interests of the members. Russia had now working-class engineers in the principal administrative positions in the factories. They were no longer dependent on the former intelligentsia, whom they had to watch carefully.

I could see where this was leading. It was going to be put to me as the reason why they no longer needed Trade Union representatives on the factory management.

The official proceeded to say that this change affected the rôle of the Trade Unions with regard to the administration. The State had now handed over to the Trade Unions in the latter part of 1933 the full control of payments for social insurance.

These powers were formerly exercised by the Commissariat for Labour, which had been done away with and its work taken over by the Trade Unions. This meant that the Trade Unions had to exercise many new and complicated functions. For example, the protection of labour—by which he meant the provision of safety regulations and apparatus such as are provided by our Factory Acts—necessitated the engagement of technical engineers to make sure that adequate protection was being afforded.

The Unions had now two main functions, (a) the protection of labour and (b) the administration of social insurance. These had actually increased the power of the Trade Unions.

The question of raising wages was not a matter of struggle, like it was in capitalist countries, but a matter of arrangement in the planning of the Soviet economy. The Director of a Soviet industry was not paying out his own money to his workers, or the money of his shareholders. He had no interest in trying to avoid paying the proper wages provided by agreements.

I POINTED out that it was too much to assume a complete identity of interest between the Director and the worker. The Director was concerned principally with efficiency and output, and the worker with the amount he could earn and the conditions under which it was earned.

I asked what part did the Trade Unions play in the fixation of wages under the plan. I was told that the plan went from the bottom to the top of industry and then after revision went back the opposite way.

In general, the Planning Commission knew what the following year's working would be. Then they allotted to every industry its particular task. Then the Commissars for various industries allotted the task for each factory.

The factory administration then came into the matter and discussed the question with the workers through the Factory Committee and the Trade Unions.

If they had any objection or alterations to make, these were reported to the central trade union, and the Commissariat of Labour for the industries concerned. Then the plan was submitted again to the Planning Commission, and if there was still a dispute, this would be remitted to the All-Union Central Council of Trade Unions, who discussed the matter with the Government.

It was argued that they had, by this means, adequately protected the wages of the workers better than Unions could possibly do in any capitalist country. There was

Women 'Navvies' banking up a railway track at Dneprostroy.

At the PALACE of LABOUR

by Sir Walter Citrine

no country in the world where the workers were so enthusiastic in their work. Had I not noticed that?

I replied that I had, but that I had also noticed that there was no other country in the world where monetary inducements to the workers were emphasised and exploited more than in Soviet Russia.

I said there was more intensive piece-work, bonus systems and general attempts to speed up by hard work than I had ever seen. I was sure that the proportion of piece-work to time-work would bear this out. I said the workers I had seen were working very hard and the women were doing arduous and severe tasks which in a Socialist state were quite unjustifiable.

They were performing physically hard work, such as digging drains in the streets, ordinary navvies' work, pulling down houses, and in short the very kind of work which in Great Britain we tried to protect them from. I said the pace at which the workers were induced, by one means or another, to work was far too high.

With such a slight industrial training, they would pay for it in years to come in the adverse effects it would have on their health.

Against this, I recognised that they were going in for sport more than they had ever done previously, and that factory hygiene was very good.

THE Trade Unions, I felt, were too much concerned with the output, and too little concerned with the real protection of the worker. I asked what they had done to defend the standard of life of the worker during the first Five Year Plan? Did not the plan provide for an increase of 74 per cent. in real wages in the final year? Actually there was not a definite reduction in the standard of life, because of inflation and high prices?

There was some consultation about this. They denied that there

avoidable, because of the necessity for providing adequate defence against the capitalist countries who threatened to attack Russia.

They further said that the second Five Year Plan provided for an increase of two and a half times the living standard of 1933, and this was in fact already being realised. I said I would require much more convincing evidence of this than I had seen up to date.

They said the real issue to determine was whether Socialism or Capitalism was best, and in their circumstances whether they should have given up Socialism.

I retorted they had never had Socialism. "The brand of what you call 'Socialism' operated here is something which I cannot recognise as Socialism. It is certainly not Social Democracy. It is more like State Capitalism."

SEARCHING FOR CHICKEN THIEF

SUSPECT REMANDED DURING INQUIRY

The theft of two Leghorn chickens from No. 222 Prince Edward Road, ground floor, the property of Mr. A. A. Lopez, was the charge brought against Li Tung, aged 45, unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

An additional charge of possession of a picklock was preferred against him. Detective Sub-Inspector R. Cunningham stated that 10 days ago, complainant lost 18 chickens and a red cockerel. Defendant was discovered yesterday in possession of two white Leghorns which he had got by opening the pen with a picklock. A picklock which fitted the lock of the pen was found in defendant's possession. His friend remanded the case for 24 hours for further enquiries.

Sergeant Bentley, prosecuting, said that defendant approached an official of the Company and asked if he could get across the harbour free, and on being refused, he climbed over the barrier, but was caught by a ticket inspector.

On the first charge, defendant was bound over, and on the second count, he was fined $3 or ten days' hard labour.

Dismissed Secretary's Case Probed

HIGH AIR MINISTRY OFFICER AT FAULT

BUT CORRUPTION NOT SUGGESTED

London, Aug. 5. The report of the Board of Inquiry into alleged discussions between Sir Christopher Bullock, former Permanent Secretary to the Air Ministry, and Sir Eric Geddes, Chairman of Imperial Airways, with regard to Sir Christopher's possible future association with Imperial Airways Board, was made public to-day.

It was in consequence of the reported conversations between Sir Christopher and Sir Eric that the Secretary of the Air Ministry was dismissed from the service.

The report of the Inquiry Board emphasises that there was no question of corruption in the case. The report states that it is the opinion of the investigators that it was improper for Sir Christopher to initiate conversations in furtherance of his desire to link his future with that of Imperial Airways and declares that this man's conduct has been completely at variance with the tenor and spirit of the Civil Service Code.

The report holds that Sir Christopher never appreciated the gravity or fully realised the true nature or possible consequences of what he was doing.

HAD NO EFFECT

The discussions between Sir Christopher and Sir Eric did not influence in any way the negotiations for the projected contract between departments of the State and Imperial Airways, or the general relations between those departments and the company.

There had been no attempt to barter honours in return for personal advancement, nor was there any desire or suggestion that such a barter was conceived by anyone concerned in the transactions.

WELCOME HONOUR

The report deals with the interview of Sir Christopher and Sir Eric on May 14, 1934, at which Sir Eric indicated that a certain honour suggested in the course of discussion would be welcome to him if it were in recognition of his services in linking up the Empire by air.

Sir Christopher had said he would like to succeed Sir Eric as chairman of Imperial Airways, but Sir Eric had replied that he had no idea of resigning.

Sir Christopher then suggested that he might be able to get himself nominated as Government Director of Imperial Airways, but Sir Eric had replied that he would not object. The Secretary of the Air Ministry neither asked for nor received any promise of Sir Eric's support, and Sir Eric did not and was not asked to commit himself in any way.

NAME OMITTED

The report then discussed the interview of June 21, 1934, at which Sir Eric asked why his name did not appear on the King's Birthday Honours List.

Sir Christopher replied that the honour would be given later when the agreement between Imperial Airways and the Government was signed. Sir Eric replied warmly that if it were to be a reward for negotiating an agreement, that agreement was out of the question at present. They would just forget it.

The Inquiry Board finds Sir Christopher's handling of the matter ill-conceived and injudicious.—Reuter.

NO CORRUPTION

London, Aug. 6. The Premier has directed that Sir Christopher Bullock, Permanent Secretary of the Air Ministry, be dismissed from the service.

The dismissal follows the finding of a Board of Inquiry appointed by the Prime Minister to investigate discussions alleged to have occurred between Sir Christopher Bullock, Sir Eric Geddes (Chairman of Imperial Airways), and Mr. Woods Humphrey (Managing Director) concerning the possibility of Sir Christopher's future association with the Board of Imperial Airways.

The findings of the inquiry have been published as a White Paper, together with a minute by the Prime Minister which, in recording Sir Christopher Bullock's dismissal, says the Premier is glad to observe that no question of corruption is involved.—Reuter.

Sir Christopher Bullock, who was born in 1891, has been Permanent Secretary of the Air Ministry since 1931. He was educated at Rugby, where he was captain of the Running Eight, and at Cambridge, where he had a brilliant record. He served in the Great War in France and Egypt, and was Principal Private Secretary to successive Air Ministers from 1923 to 1930.

Reconstruction Vote Passes

AMBITIOUS FRENCH UNDERTAKING

Paris, Aug. 5. The Public Works Bill, which authorises the expenditure of £50,000,000 during the coming year, has been passed by the Senate.

The amount to be spent this year is a part of France's three-year plan for public reconstruction, for which £250,000,000 will be required. The Bill will now go back to the Chamber of Deputies in view of its several amendments.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

TREATY TALKS HELD UP

BRITISH REPLY AWAITED

Alexandria, Aug. 5. The Anglo-Egyptian treaty negotiations have been momentarily held up on the capitulations question.

The delegates are awaiting the British Government's reply to questions on the capitulations clause. Meanwhile, the Egyptian delegation has postponed its departure for London, which had been fixed for August 13, until later in the month.—Reuter.
